Zeppelin Has Switched From Previously Planned Southern Route by Way of Bermuda—Expected to Reach United States Tomorrow Morning

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Overcoming a potential weather handicap which threatened unduly to delay her trans-Atlantic passage, the dirigible ZR-3, voyaging from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, was speeding along the ocean air lane toward the New Jersey coast shortly before noon today at the rate of 75 miles

Geo. W. Plummer, Jr. and

ter Pleas of Not Guilty

Held Without Bail on Charges of Murdering Mrs.
Risteen's Husband

SALEM, Oct. 14.—George W. Plummer, Jr., and Mrs. Marion Risteen of Beverly were arraigned at the local district court this morning on charges of murdering Mrs. Risteen's husband, Fred Risteen, at North Beverly, on the night of Sept. 21. The body was discovered in Norwood's pond, Oct. 4, by three boys who were duck shooting. In a confession, Plummer said that he killed Risteen in a "fair fight" following the latter's protest that he was paying too much attention to his wife. In voices that were hardly audible in the courtroom, Plummer and Mrs. Risteen pleaded not guilty to murder. Plummer wore a sickly smile on his face in which he pleaded. Mrs. Risteen nearly collapsed as she uttered the words "not guilty," but she was caught by a police officer. The case was continued for a week on the request of William H. Mcweeney, their counsel, and the defendants were remanded to Salem jail without bail.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Maria Fitzgerald Cull; two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Cudworth and Louis M. Cull; one son, Arthur T. Cull, and a brother, Thomas P. Cull.

JOHN H. CULL

Cull was educated in the public schools and began to learn the printer's trade at the C. I. Hood Co. He later moved to Littleton, N. H., where for more than a year he was engaged in newspaper work. He subsequently returned to Lowell and to the Hood Co.

WILL ELECT TWO MEMBERS OF HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING COMMISSION

City Council and School Committee Will Meet This Evening to Elect Successors to Dr. Joseph E.
Lamoureux and John A. Stevens—City Hall News

The city council and the school committee tonight meet to elect two members of the high school building commission. The vacancies to be filled by this joint meeting were caused by the resignations of Dr. Joseph E. Lamoureux and John A. Stevens. Dr. Lamoureux resigned several months ago but was prevailed upon to reconsider, last week stating definitely that he desired his resignation accepted. Mr. Stevens resigned unexpectedly today in a letter received at the mayor's office. The letter of Mr. Stevens follows:

"Due to increased demands on my time by my private business I wish to resign from the High School Building Commission, and be relieved of any further responsibility in the construction of the new high school."

Council President James J. Gallagher will preside at the session, the mayor being unable to attend because of illness. Without the mayor there are 21 persons eligible to vote, six being members of the school board and fifteen being members of the city council.

Only two persons have been mentioned thus far for the vacancies. They are Julian H. Keyes, treasurer of the Mechanics Savings bank and William F. Barrett, attorney and son of Andrew J. Barrett. Mr. Keyes this morning said that he had been unaware that his name was being mentioned, never having been approached on the proposition.

City Auditor's Report
The monthly report of the city auditor, including the financial data of all departments for the month of September was received from the printer and distributed to various offices in the city hall today. Politicians gave scant attention to the issue because of the fact that tomorrow the quarterly report of the financial statistics for the first 9 months of the calendar year, will be given out. It is to this report that the politicians customarily look for the meat of their data for denunciation or attacks upon the conduct of municipal business.

City Auditor Martin will have his report with him tonight when he appears before the finance committee of the council, charged with looking into the request of the mayor that another additional appropriation, this time for $5,000, be given to the charities department. In view of the recent investigation of the street department the auditor's summary of the financial status of that department will also undoubtedly be scanned with avidity.

New Voters Register
Applicants for registration continue to look in large numbers to the office of the board of elections in city hall. This morning found a score or more waiting to get their names on the voting list when the office was opened at 9 o'clock. Prospective voters continued to come in a steady stream throughout the day.

Tomorrow is the last day of registration and the board has voted to keep its office in city hall open from 9 o'clock tomorrow morning through until 10 o'clock tomorrow night.

A special meeting of the board of public service is likely to be called tomorrow to discuss with City Engineer Stephen Kearney the work programs of the street and sewer departments for the remainder of the

CHARGE ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO MURDER

George D. Hogan, who was arrested Saturday afternoon following the confession of Thomas Faustino which implicated him in the shooting of Fred H. Peabody, milkman, on Sept. 18, was arraigned in district court this morning on a complaint charging him with assault with intent to murder. He pleaded not guilty and was continued in $15,000 bonds until Oct. 21.

Deputy Hugh Downey and Sergt. Philip Dwyer went to Cambridge today to confer with the district attorney on the disposition of the charge against Jose F. Souza, the original suspect in connection with the shooting. Capt. Petrie stated Saturday that the government would request that the charge against Souza be not pressed, as Faustino had absolved him from all blame.

The revolver with which the deed was done was found under the piazza of Hogan's home Saturday afternoon.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

W. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

To celebrate the holiday three performances were given at the Lowell B. F. Keith theatre yesterday, with capacity audiences. The show was satisfactory from beginning to end, with Bert Baker & Co. in the headline position.

"Prevention" is the title of the Baker offering and it is fast-moving comedy from the drop of the hat. Baker has a pocket full of alibis for all occasions and he needs them, for "friend wife" is usually suspicious of his actions and answers. In support are Mrs. Mardell Baker, Ed Gallagher and Nellie Mond.

Polly and Oz will be remembered from past appearances, featuring novel songs, given with a new touch. Polly does most of the singing and Oz is a comic piano-stool performer. There is action in every one of Polly's songs and yesterday's audiences seemed to like them.

Lazar and Dale present "The Begonia Hunters," billed as an Ethel Dorian travesty. Lazar is a black-face comedian and is funny in a quiet sort of way, although he seeks many of his laughs through stuttering. There is music in the act, too.

Mystery problems are offered by Myrtle Herrmann, widow of the great Herrmann of honored memory in the world of magic. Her most puzzling trick is called Neph's ark and those who saw it yesterday could offer no satisfactory explanation or solution.

The Chevalier brothers give a first class exhibition of hand-to-hand balancing and prove versatile and smooth-working entertainers. They played at the Keith house in Boston two weeks ago and are as good in their line as any performers seen here in years.

Kid antics are at the bottom of the act of Bertie Leon and Sybil Dorian. "The Clean Heart" is the feature motion picture this week, starring Percy Marmont, Marguerite de la Motte and Otis Harlan.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

A thrilling tale of the life of Broadway society folk together with the pictureization of the doings of the workaday world is "Broadway After Dark," being shown at the Merrimack Square theatre the first half of the week, with Adolphe Menjou, Anna Q. Nilsson and Carmel Myers in the leading roles. The story deals with a pampered society man who, tired of life and its glided offerings, seeks diversion among the lower set. There he meets with Rose Dulane, victim of unfortunate circumstances. Aware of the fact that clothes make a woman, Ralph Norton sends the girl of the underworld to his set. Romance then enters young Norton's life and interesting and thrilling scenes ensue. Assisting the stars in the case are Norma Shearer, Edward Burns, Vera Lewis, Jimmy Quinn, Edgar Norton, Ethel Miller, Otto Hoffman, Lew Harvey and Michael Dink.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels

"California Fig Syrup" is Dependable Laxative for Sick Children

Children Love Its Pleasant Taste

If your little one is out-of-sorts, won't play, seems sick, angry, not natural—support the bowels! A teaspoonful of delicious "California Fig Syrup" given anytime sweetens the stomach and soon moves the sour fermentations, gases, poisons and indigestible matter right out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers depend upon this gentle, harmless laxative. It never cramps or overacts. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs. Say "California" to your druggist and avoid counterfeits. Insist upon which has "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages plainly printed on bottle.

er is thrown among the fends of the underworld. Through an unforeseen meeting the sisters are reunited although complications hinder the smoothness of the reconciliation.

Both pictures, although dealing with "after dark" are interesting and afford many thrilling scenes. In "Cornered" Madge Kennedy is assisted by Marie Prevost, John Roche, Raymond Hatton and Wilfred Lucas. An interesting number from the International News Weekly and a comedy complete the bill for the first half of the week.

THE STRAND

"The Navigator" featuring Buster Keaton, comedian, has excellent reviews from all the Strand. Keaton has never before. Keaton plays "The Navigator" with all the skill that has made him a prime favorite in the movie world. He keeps you laughing from his first to his last appearance, his characterization of the "saw" in a wealthy family (see being all to the funny, detected by the girl he idealizes, he decides to honeymoon alone. Getting on the wrong boat, he meets the girl of his dream. The couple are married by foreign revolutionists, and then the fun begins in earnest. Keaton gets into all kinds of difficulties. He makes coffee out of the water, uses one of the ship's boilers as a restroom, goes to the sea bottom in a diver's suit, fights swordfish with their own weapons, gets caught in the net, and when he is washed upon an island, he repels an attack of cannibals by use of Roman candles and coconuts. He and the girl are saved from destruction by the timely arrival of a submarine. Keaton is supported in the picture by Kathryn McGuire.

The second big feature of the current bill is "The Truth About Women," with Hope Hampton, Lowell Sherman, Mary Thurman, David Dowl and baby Dainty Lee, the screen's latest baby sensation.

The story deals with modern times and modern women and involves a love triangle in which one woman loves her husband and lives for him and his baby until the "other" woman appears. "The domestic happiness of the couple is wrecked by the third party's interference. After the separation the baby dies and in due time, a prominent writer falls in love with the unhappy mother. She attains professional success through his assistance and when she has risen to undreamed-of heights her husband tries to win her back. The Strand tells whether he does or not.

An International news reel, a regular comedy and pleasing musical oddities complete an interesting entertainment.

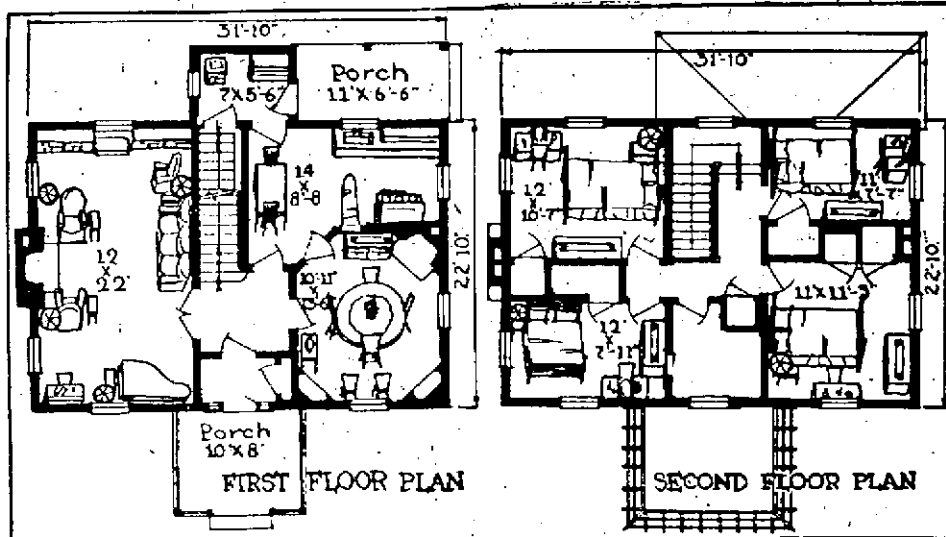

REALTY THEATRE

A picture to make you think even while you are being entertained is the nth degree. It is "By Divine Right" at Leah's Realty Theatre, with Elliot Dexter starring. It is his own production and he has made a film the public will simply go into ecstasies over. It is human, full of beauty and drama, with two great thrills, and a marvelous cast. Mildred Harris is beautiful in the leading feminine role, while Grace Corliss, Anders Randolph, DeWitt Jennings, Sydney Bruce, and others made a wonderful support for the star.

This picture is a novelty, that is to say, it gets over a wonderful message over while affording most melodramatic entertainment at times. There is no preaching but a world of food for thought; there is a love story that holds like a vice and a brain-brook that simply brings you to your feet. It is a story of a man who conducted a mission for the needy aliens and who

Square, Compact House Like Others, Yet Has Distinctive Features

Today's house is a good choice for the lot that is in the midst of a row of ordinary "square" houses.

It is not conspicuously different in size and style, which would deteriorate the value and appearance of them all, but at the same time it is an example of good architecture, and for that reason is distinctive. The "square" plan is perhaps one of the hardest to give an exterior that is well-proportioned and pleasing.

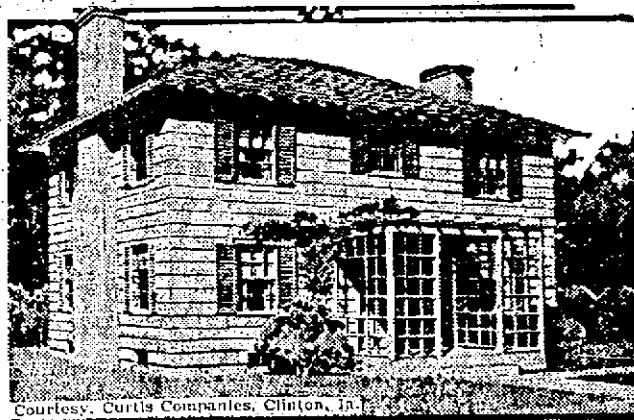

Various materials could be used in the development of the house, either separately or in combination. The architects selected wide siding, painted white, with bluish green shutters and shingle roof of the same color.

One of the most noticeable improvements is the use of twelve-light windows called Colonial windows. Another is the latticed entrance porch, so much more attractive than the usual huge, heavy affair which dominates many houses of this kind.

Seven rooms in two stories is an ideal arrangement for many families. In this excellent plan, there is a central hall, with a boxed stair, as well as a vestibule with a coat closet. French doors lead into the large living room, occupying one entire side of the first floor, with windows in three directions.

The hearth occupies a vantage point in the center of the long outside wall, where it is visible from the hall. Its chimney is balanced by another chimney on the other side of the house for the fireplace in the dining room. This pleasant room has its angles all softened, two by a pair of corner china closets, one by the fireplace, and the fourth by the kitchen door.

The kitchen is large, but its long

and rather narrow shape makes it unusually convenient. Ironing board, dresser and worktable are among the built-in features that lighten the housewife's task. A rear entry is provided for the handy reaching of refrigerator and basement.

Upstairs there are four corner bedrooms with cross ventilation. Each has a clothes closet and one has also a tray case built in. In the hall there is an ample linen case. One of the economical features of this house, besides its compact, square arrangement, is the use of standard materials throughout, including standardized woodwork.

It should cost about $6980 to build this house, in the average community. (Copyright, 1924, The Lowell Sun)

Demonstration of the Horton Ironer and Horton Washing Machine

For five days beginning Tuesday, Oct. 14, Miss Alice Beurgelin, representing the Horton Manufacturing Company of Fort Wayne, Indiana, will demonstrate at our Appliance Store, the Horton Ironer and the Horton Washing Machine.

After a thorough investigation of the various laundry appliances on the market, and after laboratory tests, we decided upon the

Horton machine as the best that we could offer to the people of Lowell.

The Horton Company has been in business for more than fifty years. During that time they have brought to perfection the ironer and washing machine for which we have become the Lowell distributors.

The Horton Open End Ironer

is easier to operate: It requires only 22x42 inches of floor space. The full and completely open end roll, an exclusive Horton feature, makes it easy to do the entire ironing. This is a real advantage as it helps materially in handling shirts, skirts, complicated pieces and large flat work.

The Horton 3-Cup Suction Washer

was originated and adopted after years of study as the ideal method of washing clothes. It washes all kinds of clothes easier, quicker, and with less wear. The perfection of operation and the speed with which it does the work commends it to the housewife who is proud of her home.

We invite the inspection of all women who are interested in economy in the home. We know there is a big field for the Horton Ironer and Washing Machine in Lowell and feel certain that the demonstration will attract a great many housewives daily.

Sanguinary Battle at Tuxtla
Gutierrez Says Report
From Mexico City

Clash Between Political Fac-
tions Results in 100 Being
Killed or Wounded

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 14.—(By the Associated Press).—A bloody clash between political factions at Tuxtla Gutierrez on Sunday, in which more than a hundred persons are said to have been killed or wounded, is reported in press despatches. The Mexican war department confirms the news of the fight, but is giving out no details. The press despatches say the trouble began when supporters of General Carlos Vidal, governor-elect of Chiapas, organized a demonstration for his reception, a large crowd gathering at the railway station. Upon General Vidal's arrival a score of shots was fired into the crowd, allegedly by supporters of Ramirez Corzo, the defeated gubernatorial candidate. The volley caused many fatalities, among them women and children, it is declared. Federal troops, rushed to the scene, were received with shots by the alleged Ramirez supporters, who had taken a stand in the government building. This was captured by the troops after a short and sanguine encounter. All persons found inside were arrested. The despatches state that the streets of the city at the scene of the encounter were strewn with dead and wounded. The chiefs of General Vidal's aides were reported to have been among those injured.

Home-made Remedy
Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply ready and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good. Four 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Then you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly loosens the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

CHILD CONTROL
Psychologists and new movements in psychiatry have been teaching those persons who have cared to keep in touch just how great an influence in after years incidents of childhood may have.
The "complexes," about which so much has been said, are being traced to almost forgotten events in child or adolescent life.
These things about which Mr. and Mrs. Mann were not particularly well informed, and there are too few people everywhere who keep the proper watch on their own and their children's habits.
Thus a school examination time at school Johnny or Mary develops a "headache," or a tummy ache, or something. Why? Because a child likes to escape unpleasant tasks, if possible.
Every parent knows how many schemes and devices a child can invent to get out of all sorts of work.
But unless a future impression is to be left upon the habits and mannerisms of the child, the parent should start early to teach the necessity of facing the realities of bumping square upon a problem and facing it out whether the end be marked by success or failure.
Parents would do well to learn that it is better that a child feel at a task than that he run around the corner to escape it. It is the fear of failure and parental rebuke that too often starts a child in the habit of deceiving both parents in himself. And this is a habit that sticks.

COLDS

"Pape's Cold Compound"
Breaks a Cold Right Up

Take two tablets every three hours until three doses are taken. The first dose always gives relief. The second and third doses completely break up the cold. Pleasant and safe to take. Contains no opium or opiates. Millions use "Pape's Cold Compound." Price, thirty-five cents. Druggists guarantee it.—Adv.

Have You Piles?

Then You Have Something to Learn
Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.
Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonard was first to find this remedy. His prescription, HEMOROID, is now sold by all druggists. Dr. Leonard tried it in 1900 cases with the marvelous record of success. It is 98 per cent and then decided it should be sold under a rigid money-back guarantee.
Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEMOROID from Green's Drug Store today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and should do the same for you—it seldom fails.—Adv.

PACING GROWTH

How often is it said of a child: "His strength is not keeping pace with its growth." The child is pale, languid and fails to enjoy the degree of robustness that is every child's right.

Scott's Emulsion

brings to a child just the elements needed to help keep pace with growth and thousands of parents attest its efficacy.
Help your child progress in strength and growth—give Scott's Emulsion regularly.

VETERAN ACTOR SPEAKS AT WOMEN'S CLUB

Frederick Warde, veteran actor of 50 years was the speaker before the Middlesex Women's club yesterday afternoon and his talk was most interesting to the large number of members who attended. Mr. Warde's reminiscences were full of humor as he told of his adventures on the stage.

"Your stage today is what you make it," he said. "It is for you to kill the bad plays with the thunder of silence. The drama today is one of the most important factors of civilization and yet we see very little of it. It is not fully appreciated today, quite unlike the time when 'Macbeth,' 'Amy Robson' and other plays were the entertainment of the hour."

Mr. Warde told of his association with Charlotte Cushman, Adelaide Neilson, Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett and Louis James. He also told of the many instances when supposedly well versed actors were unable to continue their sketch because of being stage struck. His various stories along this line were pleasing and interesting.

Douglas Fairbanks, the idol of many theatergoers made his first appearance on the stage mainly through the influence of Mr. Warde Fairbanks, who had long hated school because of his love for the stage at last determined to leave school. Mr. Warde took him into his company and after the usual slips of the amateur actor Fairbanks made for himself a name which shall live throughout stardom.

Mr. Warde was most interesting especially in reviewing his adventures with various actors of the stage of yesterday and today.

HAVERHILL MAN IS ARRAIGNED HERE

As the result of a collision at Pawtucket street and Broadway early Sunday morning, William E. Spruhan of Haverhill was arraigned in district court this morning on charges of operating an automobile in a manner endangering the lives and safety of the public, and going away without making himself known after doing injury to persons and property. He pleaded not guilty and his case was continued to Oct. 23.

Spruhan is alleged to have been the driver of a machine owned by Robert Godfrey of Haverhill, which crashed into a car owned and driven by Fred Scott of 22 Oxford street, this city. Godfrey and Scott were knocked unconscious by the collision and were treated at the Corporation hospital.

One of the first persons to arrive on the scene after the accident was Traffic Officer Daniel P. Brennan, who with Motorcycle Officer Daniel M. Lynch, assisted in extricating the injured parties from the wrecked car. Officer Lynch and Motor Vehicle Inspector Eugene Loupret located Spruhan at his home in Haverhill some time later and brought him to this city.

got into the bad graces of a politician when he attempted to interfere in his pursuit of an innocent girl. He is railroaded to prison, gets away before reaching there through the wreck, and returns to right all wrongs.

While classing essentially as a melodrama of western life, "Fighting Buddy," the second of the series of eight thrillers starring Buddy Roosevelt, and which is the added feature on the bill, has a number of laughs interwoven in the action.

A new chapter of "Fighting Blood," a Century company and a Fox News reel, are also included in this lengthy program. The Rialto Symphonic orchestra, under direction of John J. Kehoe are in the pit every evening, with Mr. Kehoe at the organ at all performances.

STRAND NEXT WEEK

"The Sea Hawk" with Milton Sills starring, is coming to The Strand. This bare announcement alone should be sufficient to interest all lovers of the best in pictures, for authoritative advance information assures the public that this picture is ranked with the very best made in several years. Apart from its ranking as a picture, the star, Sills, has made such a name for himself that now he is listed with the most noted of screen luminaries. His characterization is said to be unequalled on the screen in years. Assisting him is a cast of genuine favorites. "The Sea Hawk" recently played a week's engagement at Worcester and it was met with such enthusiastic acclaim by the patrons that it ran two extra weeks. This report, together with the assurances of those who have been privileged to witness this screen classic, should satisfy local theatergoers of its superior worth. It will play at The Strand for one week, starting with Sunday's matinee.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Common Clay," as presented this week by the Stanley James players takes rank as one of the greatest shows ever shown here in stock. It is indeed a blue-ribbon offering, a human interest story into which is woven in delightful and intriguing manner an abundance of pathos, love, humor, stark tragedy and unalloyed emotion. Miss Lillian Desmond, leading woman, has a highly emotional role which she does well. Gerald Howan, leading man, as the errant scapegoat son of an indulgent father, sows his wild oats with a heavy hand and in the end repays as one banished who casts his bread upon the waters.

It is a paradoxical play, a play based on the oldest of all human emotions. In this offering there are many little twists that are all a theme in themselves. Dramatic scene follows closely upon dramatic scene that one is impressed with the fact that in "Common Clay" here truly is a drama in actuality as well as in name. In "Common Clay" we have two stories of misguided love, misguided but not misplaced, that run along together with the same action, the same smoothness as two logs in a playful stream current. It is a sweet show, to which comedy must bring a handkerchief to dry her tears, and her escort, men being no less susceptible to an appeal.

clation of the struggles of the working girl, must make sure all vest buttons are lightly sewed.

The work of Jack Casler West, juvenile actor of the company, is outstanding. Wilmer Walter also makes a lasting impression. Miss Helen Aubrey rises to super dramatic heights in a courtroom scene where she discloses the true parentage of little Ellen Neal, the moth who was singed after she turned away from the light.

Harry Fisher as the shyster lawyer, who shows more interest in his out of settlement fee than the mission of providing a deserved name for newborn youth, is well cast. Miss Vessie Parrel and Miss Faith Avery are not so much in the forefront in this particular play, but what falls to their lot they handle with the consummate ease and finished grace that we like and have grown to expect of them. In short it is an excellent play in which all members of the cast show flashes that are delightful, but the show belongs to Miss Desmond and Mr. West save for that one dramatic, heart-rending minute when Miss Aubrey rises to dramatic heights and focuses all eyes upon herself. The scenery is the best we have seen at the Opera House in many a day. It is a great play, presented in a manner that shows uncommon preparation. The cast:

REPUBLICAN PARTY RESPONSIBLE

At the democratic rally on Friday evening Frederick W. Mansfield, nominee for state treasurer, voiced an important point that seems to be lost sight of by most voters. It is that of party responsibility. We have party government in this country, principally by two great parties, one of which is in power and the other on the outside ready to criticize anything that is wrong in the administration. That is the only way in which efficient government can be secured; but it involves party responsibility for the conduct and the failures of its chosen officials. In England as soon as the ministry loses control in parliament it has to resign. That is the real purpose of party government, it being at all times responsive to the will of the people. Our practice is different, more roundabout, but the end to be attained is the same.

In the present election, it is plain that the republican party is, and should be, held responsible for the misdeeds of its high officials at Washington, yet the party leaders are endeavoring to evade this exposure of corruption in high places by putting forward President Coolidge as the party candidate and also the platform. Coolidge, of course, is not classed with Fall, Forbes, Daugherty and Denby, but the republican party to which these officials belonged and by which they were elevated to office is responsible for their malfeasance, and because of this fact, it should be driven from power. It has failed to give the country good, clean and efficient government. On the contrary, some of the most important departments have been exploited for private gain, the property of the government has been bartered away most shamefully and the people's money appropriated for relief of the disabled veterans, squandered by unscrupulous grafters. What is the remedy? Simply to drive the republicans from power and put the democratic party in charge of the government.

In spite of conflicting claims as to the outcome of the election, there is reason to believe that this will probably be done. The people are tired of the business depression resulting from republican mismanagement, and they are likely to vote to place at the head of the government that sterling democrat, that brilliant lawyer and able statesman, John W. Davis.

It is true the situation is complicated by the candidacy of La Follette, but he will secure control of practically none but republican states so that the chances of republican success are to that extent lessened. It is on this ground that the democratic leaders expect to win a victory on November 4 as was the case in 1912 when Col. Roosevelt split the republican party.

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

No more misleading measure, it is claimed, was ever introduced into congress and no measure ever misled so many people by reason of its title as did the proposed child labor amendment to the constitution. For years the question of a child labor amendment had been advocated and naturally all the legislators from the northern states favored it for the reason that it was intended to prevent the abuses of child labor prevailing in the textile factories in the southern states. It was intended also to overcome the advantage which those states had in cheap labor as compared with the textile factories of Massachusetts in which child labor is forbidden. It was, therefore, not surprising that a great many people regarded only the humanitarian label attached to the amendment. A great many deceptive measures are carried through such labels. It has been stated that almost any measure will be voted for in congress if it bears the label of moral reform. Of that there are many convincing proofs; but in the present case it appears the deception has been discovered, and it is now realized that the present child labor amendment would first of all be an encroachment upon the rights of the states; and second, an unwarranted invasion of the rights of parents to control the education and the labor of their children. The amendment would vest that power in congress; and judging from what we have seen in the enforcement of the prohibition law, it may be assumed that the anti-child bureau would call for another band of inspectors to investigate and official leaders to see that all persons under 18 years of age were using their time, not as their parents or the state authorities desired, but as the bureau at Washington dictated. Nothing half so monstrous as this amendment has been proposed in congress for a great many years. It is much worse than the proposition to give congress power to override the decisions of the supreme court on constitutional questions.

The Sun denounced this amendment before its real purport was generally known.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

What the people are anxiously looking for at the present time is some indication of an improvement in business. In Lowell and other New England cities engaged in the textile business there is considerable anxiety as to the future, although present indications show improvement in several lines of textile manufacture. A couple of mills in this vicinity are working overtime; but the majority are still lagging behind for lack of orders. It would seem, however, that as a result of high prices for farming products in the northwest and generally also in other districts, there will be a demand for textile products among millions of people who for the past two years have not had money enough to buy what they wanted.

The uncertainty in regard to the ultimate size of the cotton crop is being overcome. It was an important factor in the textile depression during the past six months. It is reported that there is a steady increase in production to meet the demands of the retail trade, but most of the factories are working from hand to mouth so to speak. The large number of people who have been unemployed or working on part time schedules during the past year, have not been able to make their usual purchases; but as they are called back to work, through their necessity, they will soon increase the demand for the textile fabrics produced in the mills. Thus it appears, that various factors are combining to increase production, lessen the unemployment and help the industries in getting back to normal conditions.

It is true, that our foreign market for textiles has been very largely cut off, and as we can produce enough to supply the domestic market in a little more than six months of the year, it is evident that without a demand from abroad our factories will have periods of idleness.

DOWN THE COOKS

Among the democratic candidates for which The Sun is asked to act as a special word is Strabo Claggett, candidate for state auditor, against Alton B. Cook, the present incumbent. Cook is not only a republican but an official of the most obnoxious type. He has proved so narrow and incompetent that his office is regarded as a veritable plague spot even by republicans. An effort was made to throw him and his brother, Washington Cook, who obtained the nomination for the governor's council in the Fall River district, off the republican ticket, but without success. Therefore, the republicans themselves are opposed to the Cooks and hence the democrats should endeavor to elect their candidates in both cases. Mr. Claggett has appeared at several rallies and appears to be well qualified for the position of auditor. He has challenged Auditor Cook to defend his record on the public platform, but Mr. Cook has made no response. Mr. Claggett is a self-made man who won a college education and business success through his own industry and perseverance. The Cooks have spoiled the republican broth.

THE JUNIOR COLLEGE

On Tuesday evening the Junior college, so-called, will be started at the local high school. It offers instruction of college grade in various branches under the direction of eminent teachers. It offers great opportunities of advancement for students who have an ambition to improve their education, but who have not been able to go to college. The state, by this new method, brings the college to the doors of the students and all that is asked is that they show an earnest desire to follow the courses taken up. These have been fully outlined in recent issues of The Sun. It is not yet too late to register and those who have the time and who need such instruction should embrace the opportunity offered.

STREET REPAIRS

Now that City Engineer Kearney is placed in full charge of the street department, it is expected that a great effort will be made to push through all the paving jobs already started and even some others before the coming of cold weather. There are streets that call for temporary repairs to serve until the work can be done permanently. Mr. Kearney will doubtless make a survey of the situation in order to find just what repairs are most urgently needed so that they may receive due attention within the short time available before the snow flies.

KEEP OUT THE BANDITS

It would seem that the epidemic of holdups and banditry that has been evident in New England for some months past is liable to reach this city unless it is repelled by the vigilance of the police.

The police of this city have done well thus far in apprehending holdup men and other dangerous characters. It is hoped they will keep up their good record and keep the bandits, thugs and young men away from Lowell.

The manner in which capitalists are reaching out for a share of the German loan, indicates either great faith in Germany or a desire to put idle money into service that may help to get the world back to normalcy.

Minor accidents prevailed yesterday in which minors were chiefly the victims. Autoists cannot be blamed when children dash from unseen nooks into their paths.

It was a glorious holiday and gloriously observed.

SEEN AND HEARD

It was a great day for all of us when Columbus discovered America.

If Faustino hadn't confessed, how would Sousa, the innocent one, have fared?

Getting to the bottom of the Peabody shooting counts another feather in the Lowell police department's cap.

A Thought

Dreams—the visions of a busy brain.—Joanna Baillie.

He Found Out

As a Washington, Penn., football fan was on his way to a game, his car drew up behind a small coupe with very small lettering on the spare tire covering. Anxious to know what was being advertised, he drove close enough to read the inscription, which said, "If you can read this you are too close."

An Old-Time Rob

What's all this agitation about hobnobbing with Mrs. Phoebe Robinson of Corinna, Me., wants to know this 56-year-old woman hobbled her hair more than 50 years ago in order to get relief from headaches, and has continued the practice ever since. The style forced upon her by necessity proved so comfortable as well as beneficial that she didn't mind being in the minority for so many years.

He'll Brown Next Time

A Clydeville stevedore, who was "fou" tumbled into a dock and was with difficulty saved from drowning. He thanked his rescuer warmly, and presented him with half a crown. The "long arm of justice" got to work, and the same thing occurred again two months later. The same man pulled him out, and he received the same heartfelt compliments. Then the sobered-up stevedore said: "There will be one after coming I've this time, laddie, I paid ye a retail price last time, and it should have been wholesale."

Well Directed Sarcasm

Four men were playing bridge, and the one who was "dummy" looked firmly at his partner, who had played the hand and broken every known rule of the game. "How long have you been playing bridge?" he asked. "O, about five years," replied the other. "Really," said the first, scathingly. "I had no idea it was possible to acquire such appalling ignorance of the game in so short a time."

Hamlet and Omelet

A very bad actor once ventured to appear in one of the plays of the village audience he tried it on would not tolerate it, and he was pelted with rotten eggs. The next day two colleagues were discussing the performance. "Well," said one, "I never laughed so much in my life as when Jones came on as Hamlet." "O," retorted the other, "I laughed much more when he went off as Omelet!"

Investigation Problem

"Gentlemen," announced Senator Spurg, "we have been assembling here now for two weeks or more. We have an appropriation, also a couple of clerks and a stenographer. We are an investigating committee, but where are we investigating?" Other members present shook their heads, indicating that they did not know. "Well, we'd better get busy and that quickly or somebody will investigate us."

The Owl

In the hollow tree, in the old gray
The spectral owl doth dwell;
Dull, hated, despised in the sunshine
But at dusk he's abroad and well!
Not a bird of the forest e'er mates with him;
All mock him outright by day;
But at night, when the woods grow
Still and dim,
The holdest will shrink away!
O, when the night falls, and roosts
The owl,
Then, then, is the reign of the horned owl.

And the owl hath a bride, who is fond
And bold,
And loveth the wood's deep gloom;
And with eyes like the shine of the
moonstone cold,
She awaiteth her ghastly groom.
Not a feather she moves, not a carol
she sings,
As she waits in her tree so still;
But when her heart heareth his dapping
wings,
She leaps out her welcome shrill!
O, when the moon shines and does
do howl,
Then, then, is the joy of the horned owl!

Mourn not for the owl, nor his gloomy
The owl hath his share of joy;
If a pigeon he be in the broad daylight,
He'll fly in the dark greenwood!
Nor lonely the bird, nor his ghastly
mate,
They are each unto each a pride;
Thrice glad, perhaps, since a strange,
dark fate
Hath rent him from all beside!
So, when the night falls, and dogs
do howl,
Shut, ho! for the reign of the horned owl!

We know not always
Who are kings by day,
But the king of the night is the bold
brown owl!

Postmaster of Town of Two People Asks $2-a-Year Raise

Searsburg's postoffice and old Ned Bartlett, 72, who threatens to quit unless his $100-a-year salary is raised $2. Inset are S. W. Leonard and his wife who have held the jobs of town clerk, treasurer, constable, tax collector and school trustee at Somerset, but who have decided to move away.

BY GENE COHN

SOMERSET, Vt., Oct. 14.—Even Bartlett, Tyre and Gardage fell—and this town of Somerset is slipping fast.
The other day almost all of the city officials and politicians departed—both of them.

It lost half of its voters—both of them.

The town clerk, the city treasurer,
the constable, the tax collector and the school trustee have all quit—both
of them.

In other words Mr. and Mrs. S. W.
Leonard are moving.
And, as though that weren't bad enough, Ned Bartlett the postmaster has demanded a $2-a-year raise, and says he'll quit if he doesn't get it.

Notice in his neighborhood can figure out what Ned's kicking about. He gets $100 a year now.

If he leaves there'll be only two voters left—Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor.
And there are but two pupils left for the school.

Yes, Somerset is fast skidding. Two years ago this community had ten legal voters. The chamber of commerce, emulating Los Angeles, advertised a population of 12.

The post office is located over the mountain at Searsburg, serving the daily by coach and several small communities.

The one encouraging fact is, that Postmaster Bartlett is public-spirited and patient. In spite of his withered $2-a-year raise and the demonstrated ingratitude of the republic, he still is on the job, as is indicated by the notice in his handwriting tacked on the office door. It says:

"If you don't see the postmaster,
hollo!"
Just tell Bartlett that a man can't live on two dollars a week and he will laugh at you.

"Well," he explains, in his quaint drawl, "you see I don't have to keep up a marble building like some of the other postmasters do. I ain't got any clerks and there's only me to feed!"

"I don't ask much off of the world,
I don't eat meat. I'm a vegetarian, I am, and I have a little garden that I tend to. I keep well on fruits, grains and vegetables. Over that on the mountainside I got quite a little space
o'ground and I live simple, just as the Lord intended."

"Now this suit I got on: The pants cost me 97 cents from a mail-order house; my shirt cost me 57 cents from the same place. You don't need fancy things up here. Khaki is all right. I don't drink coffee, tea or whisky, and that cuts down expenses."

"I've been postmaster for 10 years and at the beginning my salary was $75 a year. But things cost more now, and a fellow has to go pretty easy to live well on $100 a year. So I'm writing a letter to President Coolidge about it."

"No, I don't want you to think I spend the whole $2 every week, because I don't. Sometimes I get along on $1."

DAILY
POEM

When you comb a kid's hair, why it surely would seem that he'd kinda be proud of his looks. But listen here, folks, that is only a dream, that you read of in fairy-tale books.

A child stands and frets while his features are scrubbed.
At the washbowl he seldom stands pat. He's kinda afraid that he'll likely be dubbed a sissy or somethin' like that.

When you dress a boy up in the best suit he's got and you know that he couldn't look better, he'll honestly tell you it's all tommyrot and he'd rather go round in his sweater.

Aw, ya can't make a hero of real little boys by washin' and trimmin' and such. Just bandage a finger they've cut on some toys and you give 'em the real hero touch.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

THERE HE WAS UP IN THE SKY WHERE THE TWINS HAD LEFT HIM

Nancy and Nick and the Sand Man stood on the bottom of the sea where they had come to hunt for the lost sleepy sand.

It did seem as though the babies on the earth would have to stay awake all night, for no sooner would the Twins find the sand and start home with it than something would happen and away it would go again.

The last thing that happened was that it caught on a mountain top and rolled down and fell into the sea.

"Hello, here!" said a little man riding up on a sea-horse. "What's the matter?"

"Oh, sir!" cried Nancy, "we've lost the sleepy sand and it's moon-up on the earth and the babies can't go to sleep. We thought perhaps the sand was here some place. It rolled down into the sea."

"We have loads of sand as you can see," said Capt. Pennywinkle, for that was the little sea fairy's name. "But you may as well try to look for a lost leaf in a forest as to come to the bottom of the sea for sand."

"But it is in a sack," said the poor Sand Man. "And if it's anywhere near, it will come when you call it, like a pet dog or cat. All you have to do is to say 'Tinkle Tinkle' and there it is right on your shoulder."

Hardly were the magic words out of the Sand Man's mouth than the sack of sleepy sand jumped from the place where it had been lying behind some sea-weed.

"Well, well, well!" laughed the little Capt. Pennywinkle. "I certainly am surprised. I never would have thought

it. Right there all the time and nobody knew it!"

"Little owls and ballets!" said the Sand Man joyfully. "At last our troubles are over. Thank you, captain, for your kind words. We didn't need your help or the help of your Wiggly people after all. Good-bye, sir! Come on, Tinkle!"

But something else was happening at that very minute, and the Sand Man and the Twins were not through.

Twee-knose, the Gnome, was as cross as three sticks about losing the sleepy sand that he had stolen.

There he was up in the sky on a star where the Twins had left him, raging and raging and raging.

While he was still raging he happened to look down just in time to see the sleepy sand roll into the sea, and the Sand Man and the Twins jump in after it.

He stopped raging at once and began to grin.

"Ah, ha!" he said, pulling his belt in another notch. "Here is where I make a high dive!"

And to the horror of the Moon Man and the Dream Maker Man who saw the whole thing, he jumped from the star straight down toward the earth, and splashed into the sea at the exact spot where the Twins and the Sand Man were talking to Captain Pennywinkle.

And just as the sack with the magic sand touched the Sand Man's shoulder, Twee-knose grabbed it and swam off into the darkness.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 24

The whirring sound grew louder and louder and finally the great plane swooped down and landed very gracefully right in the center of the open space. "Let's go down and see who it is and what's the matter," suggested the guide. So everybody in the tree hut hurried down to the ground.

"Hi there," shouted Jack, as he approached the plane. "Hi, yourself," shouted the aviator, as he started to get out of the plane seat. Then the whole of the exploring party surrounded the plane and the fier shook hands with them all. He explained that he was on his way to India and just came down to rest.

"India?" shouted Jack. "Geo, I wish I could go with you." "Well, you can," replied the aviator. "I've got an extra seat and you and your dog and monkey can join me if you want to see all the sights of that country." Jack Daw's next adventure will be among the Thrills of India.

Balanced Meals

Expensive foods do not, of any necessity, mean healthful foods. Mrs. Mann had long since learned this and made application of the moral in her household. Thus, tomatoes may cost 10 cents each in winter but they do nothing to build up body tissues nor do they furnish fuel for the body so necessary in the cold months. As a summer food they furnish vitamins and minerals, but when their cost rises their food value is negligible. So it is with many other costly things as well. Thus the responsibility that depends upon a housewife is great when it comes to planning meals. Much expense may be spared and general health of all diners improved by arrangement of a carefully balanced meal. The appetite is not always a safe guide. Don't let it rule your menu.

JUNIORATE DEDICATED

Thousands Attend Impressive Ceremonies of Marist Order on Old Tyng Estate

Cardinal Represented by Provincial—Choirs From Many Cities Are Represented

The new juniorate of the Marist brothers situated on a lofty knoll on the Tyng estate facing on the Princeton boulevard in Tyngsboro, was dedicated Sunday afternoon with impressive ceremonies which were attended by over 7500 persons from Lowell and other nearby cities.

Among the throng which gathered to celebrate the dedication of the new juniorate were many notables of the Marist order and priests of the diocese. The principal speakers were Rev. Augustine F. Hickey, P.T.L., supervisor of Catholic schools in the diocese, and Rev. A. Rabal, provincial of the Marist order, who represented the cardinal. The majority of the laity present were French speaking people, for it is among these that the Marist brothers have labored tirelessly since the order was introduced in this country from France in 1855. Lowell was officially represented by the mayor, and George E. Trudel of Manchester, N. H., was also among the notables present.

Choirs of Many Cities

The dedication ceremony opened with the singing of the hymn to the Holy Name by a choir consisting of the boys of the Marist schools in Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill and Manchester, accompanied by St. Anne's band of Lawrence. Rev. Brother Aloysius was in charge of the music.

Donovan of Lowell, Mayor Trudel of Manchester, Rev. A. Rabal, Rev. Fr. Hickey, Rev. John J. Crane, pastor of St. John's church, North Chelmsford; Rev. Bro. Zephire, former provincial of the Marist order; Rev. Bro. Gabriel, Canadian provincial of the Marist order.

VERY REV. BRO. LEO, Provincial

der; Rev. Bro. Leo, provincial; Rev. Bro. Angelicus, assistant supervisor general of the Marist order; Rev. Bro. John Casimir, director, and Rev. Bro. Hickey of the Marist school in Manchester, N. H.; Rev. Bro. Victor, director of the Haverhill school; Rev. Bro. Alphonsus, director of the Lawrence school; and Rev. Bro. Edmund, director of the new juniorate who had charge of the arrangements for the dedication.

Rev. Fr. Rabal was the first speaker introduced. Speaking in French, he congratulated the brothers of the school for their devotion to duty and the people of the city for the beautiful new building which, he said, would stand for years to come as a monument of the faith of those who assisted in building the school. He told of the splendid devotion to their work by the Marist brothers and said the order would grow to be one of the most important in the country.

Following the singing of "O Canada," Rev. Fr. Hickey was introduced. "We have gathered here this afternoon," he said, "to ask the blessing of God on this edifice erected as a juniorate of the Marist order. This hour is dear to us and we can't but feel proud of this building which typifies the devotion of its founders. Here under this roof young men will prepare for a life of holy work, they will go forth from here fired with the knowledge and determination that will implant in the hearts of all a true appreciation of life and the responsibility of life before God and man.

To Uphold Tradition

"Religion and history," he continued, "go hand in hand through the centuries and are the greatest bulwarks for any country, and for twenty centuries the story of the Catholic church has been the story of education, and will be to the end of all things. In this country especially the traditions of the Catholic church are being nobly upheld. Year by year new schools are dedicated to God and thousands of young men attend these schools, where it is a doctrine that religion and education must go together that one cannot be divorced from the other and exist."

In closing, Fr. Hickey congratulated all who were connected with the erection of the building and asked the blessing of God for its success and the success of all who build it.

The hymn to St. Joseph was next sung by the combined choirs and was followed by the blessing of the building by Fr. Rabal, assisted by Fr. Crane.

Bro. Leo a Speaker

Rev. Bro. Leo was the next speaker and briefly traced the work of those connected with the erection of the building in purchasing the site and collecting the funds for its construction, and thanked all who had any part in the work.

A large American flag was then blessed and unfurled while the gathering sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

The clergy and invited guests present then went to the assembly hall of the new school where Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was celebrated by Rev. John J. Crane. Upon the conclusion of this service, the building was thrown open for general inspection by the public and a large majority of those in attendance at the services took advantage of the opportunity to view the interior of the building.

The Tyng estate was purchased by the Marist Brothers in 1921 and the old inn on the property was used by the Brothers as a school and summer home for several years. This building proved inadequate for school purposes and plans were made early in 1922 to build a big school that would be credit to the order and would serve the needs of those who desired to study for a religious life in the Marist order. Plans advanced rapidly and over a year ago actual construction work was begun on the juniorate. It was completed a short while ago and is the second Marist Brothers' juniorate in this country, the only other one being in Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The building is four stories in height. The first floor is set aside for studies and rooms of the brothers, the second is occupied by classrooms, a chapel and infirmary; on the third floor are more class rooms and the dormitory and a second chapel are on the top floor. The basement contains oil heating equipment and a laundry.

Registration Room

The building is well lighted and the fittings are most modern throughout. In the rear of the juniorate is an

WINTER SCHEDULE AT THE COMMODORE

Beginning tonight, the winter schedule will go into effect at the Commodore ballroom and in the future "Mat" Hallett will be at this resort on three evenings each week, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. "Mat" and his team will be on hand to open the season this evening playing for check dancing starting at 8:30 and continuing until 12. The same lively program which has characterized Hallett's visits at the Commodore will be in order and the usual pleasant evening may be enjoyed by the patrons. The admission will be the same as heretofore, 10 cents.

Here is an announcement that will undoubtedly create a great deal of enthusiasm among the dance followers of the city—Paul Specht's Carolina Club orchestra has been booked for an engagement at the Commodore ballroom for Friday evening this week. Manager Roane made the announcement today after negotiations with the management of the Commodore about aggregation and feels that this attraction will draw a large gathering to hear this celebrated team.

Paul Specht and his orchestra have returned to the United States after an engagement at the recently hotel in London where they played to large and appreciative gatherings among those present being the Prince of Wales. On his recent trip to this country and while aboard the steamship Doregaria the orchestra was returning on the same liner and during the trip played for the dancing which brought forth words of commendation from the prince.

Press reports from all over the country have spoken highly of the orchestra as it has been in several of the largest cities in the country. It has played as a "handliner" in B. B. Keith's theatres, music halls, clubs and cafes and while in New York city has been frequently heard on the radio by local fans.

Mark the calendar Friday evening this week and make it a point to hear this famous orchestra.

COMMUNITY CHEST CAMPAIGN IS ON

Lowell's community chest campaign will soon be functioning under the leadership of competent managing directorship. It is probable that an active canvass of the city at large will be made within a few weeks.

Plans for the formal start of the campaign that is to enroll the city of Lowell in the community chest category of municipalities centralizing and co-ordinating work in the distribution unfurnished addition which will later be finished and used as a chapel.

The registration at the opening of the juniorate two weeks ago was 40, 12 being juniors from the New York school and the others residing in this district. Rev. Bro. Edmund, who is director of the school, is confident that it will be taxed to capacity before the year is over.

THIS WOMAN'S MARVELLOUS RECOVERY

All Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Truman, Minn.—"I was badly run-down and had pains in my side and back; sometimes I couldn't hardly move around in bed. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking it I was so much better I could do all my work again. I do my housework, have a garden, raise chickens, and in harvest time I worked in the field and helped pick corn. Sometimes I do chores and milk. I took the Vegetable Compound before and after my four-months-old baby was born, and it has always helped me wonderfully. I believe there is no better medicine made for women, and I hope every woman will give it a fair trial."

—Mrs. AUGUST R. WIDENHOFF, R. N. 2, Box 88, Truman, Minnesota.

Women suffering from troubles so common to their sex should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

The Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved women of such troubles for the past fifty years. For sale by druggists everywhere.

LOWELL CHURCH WINS LEAGUE HONORS

Competing with 54 other organizations engaged in similar religious and charity work, the Church of All Nations on Worthen street, yesterday won for the third successive time honors in registering highest percentages of members present, at the October convention of the Epworth League held in Worcester. The Lowell church contest percentage yesterday was 28.

Rev. Leslie C. Boakes, active leader of the local organization, supervised the trip of 18 members of the Worthen street church to the Worcester convention. The local church Epworth League chapter also was awarded the league banner for traveling the longest distance to the convention.

The Lowell delegates thoroughly enjoyed the trip to the heart of the commonwealth and found much in the day's convention proceedings to encourage the work here at home in the Worthen street religious organization.

Rev. William F. Anderson, new bishop of the Boston area of the Methodist churches, made his first official visitation to Wesley church, where the conference was conducted, yesterday. He pleaded eloquently for "more evangelism in New England."

The church of All Nations capturing of the Epworth league percentage-of-attendance banner yesterday, came after three successive awards. The first two highest marks were scored at the convention held on April 13 and Labor Day.

READY TO MEET COMPETITORS BACK TO BACK

These young ladies are rather accustomed to having things said behind their backs. In fact many remarks have been passed recently by judges of the "Perfect Spine Contest" staged by the Chiropractic Square Club of New York. Some 700 young ladies turned their backs on the judges, as it were, but only the spines of Florence Hughes, Florette Dupree and Priscilla Todd (left) survived the rigid test of X-ray machines, muscle contractions, tonicity in relation to curves, etc.

CLOSET FOR FOODS

Anyone who can storage a little lumber can have a fresh air closet for foods, and this is an excellent method for keeping them fresh and at the same time keeping smells from the pantry.

All that is needed are a few lath, some nails and a little wire gauze, with a shelf or two stuck in. Almost anyone who can drive a nail should be able to make one.

Place it in a cool spot, within handy reach and, unless the weather is hot, this is a better place for food than any ice chest.

Clean earthen dishes should be used to hold the food and never in any sort of metal. Cheesecloth bags can easily be made and into these slip the plate and food. If ants should find the place put a coat of camphor around the box every two weeks or so.

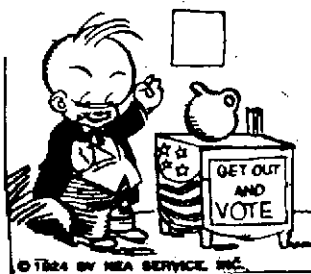

About every six months take the box down and scald it thoroughly with boiling soda water.

EVERETT TRUE

COMMON SENSE

When a merchant advertises his wares in a newspaper, he does not appeal to the paper, but to its readers. He solicits the patronage of those readers whether he agrees with the policy of the paper or not.

To refrain from advertising in a paper of wide circulation simply because he does not agree with the editor on all public questions, is not using common sense. It is a form of business suicide. It has sent many short-sighted business men into bankruptcy. A dealer might as well put a sign over his store notifying all who do not think as he does that he does not want their patronage. Readers of newspaper advertisements know when and where their patronage is welcome.

Menus for Family

Breakfast—Stewed dried apricots, codfish balls, milk toast, cocoa, coffee.
Luncheon—Potatoes and cheese soup, whole wheat bread and butter, apple Charlotte, milk tea.
Dinner—Tomato bisque, baked haddock, scalloped potatoes, bread pudding, cabbage-apple and celery salad, steamed graham pudding, milk, coffee, hot rolls, butter, honey, oatmeal bread for children.

Dried apricots should be washed through many waters and soaked overnight in cold water to more than cover. This water should be drained off and the fruit should be simmered in boiling water "to cover" until tender. Of course, if it's more convenient you can "soak" the apricots for six or eight hours during the day and simmer them for two hours while you are getting dinner. But dried apricots must be allowed to stand in water for several hours to remove the preparation used to prevent discoloration during drying.

Potato and Cheese Soup
 Two cups milk, 1 small onion, 1 cup mashed potato, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoon paprika, 4 tablespoons grated cheese.

Peel and slice onions and scald with milk. Strain to remove onion. Add mash potato and salt and pepper to milk. Melt butter and stir in flour. Add hot milk mixture, stirring constantly. Cook five minutes. Add cheese and keep hot over hot stove until cheese is melted.

Apple Charlotte
 Three cups thinly sliced apples, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, currant jelly, thin slices bread.

Put a core and slice apples. Put a little water in saucepan, add apples, cover and cook until tender. Add sugar and butter and cook a few minutes longer, stirring constantly. Remove crust from bread and spread both sides lightly with butter. Line the bottom and sides of a tin with cinnamon and cover with a layer of prepared apples. Spread with jelly and continue layer (or layer) until all apples are used. Cover with bread and bake in a hot oven until brown. Turn out on a platter and slice to serve.

Fried Peppers
 Four green sweet peppers, 6 tablespoons grated cheese, 6 tablespoons bread crumbs from soft part of loaf, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1/2 teaspoon salt, milk, 1 egg, dried bread crumbs, 1 cup stewed tomatoes.

Cut slices from stem end of peppers, remove seeds and white fiber and wash. Mix cheese, onion, bread crumbs and salt with enough milk to hold mixture together. Fill peppers with mixture. Roll in dried crumbs, dip in egg slightly beaten with 1 tablespoon cold water, roll again in crumbs and fry in a frying pan. Serve on a platter surrounded with stewed tomatoes.

USE WARM KNIFE
 To slice hard-boiled eggs perfectly without crushing, use a knife dipped in boiling water and wiped dry. Repeat as often as it cools.

The visiting card is of Chinese origin.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

To celebrate the holiday three performances were given at the Lowell R. F. Keith theatre yesterday, with capacity audiences the rule. The show was satisfactory from beginning to end, with Bert Baker & Co. in the headline position.

"Prevarication" is the title of the Baker offering and it is fast-moving comedy from the drop of the hat. Baker has a pocket full of ails for all occasions and he needs them for "friend wife" is usually suspicious of his actions and answers. In support are Mrs. Marshall Baker, Ed Gallagher and Nellie Mond.

Polly and Oz will be remembered from past appearances, featuring novel songs, given with a new touch. Polly does most of the singing and Oz is an eccentric piano-stool performer. There is action in every one of Polly's songs and yesterday's audiences seemed to like them.

Lazar and Dale present "The Dagoo-Hunters," billed as an Ethiopian travesty. Lazar is a black-face comedian and is funny in a quiet sort of way, although he seeks many of his laughs through stuttering. There is music in the act, too.

Mystery problems are offered by Adelaide Herrmann, widow of the late Herrmann of honored memory in the world of magic. Her most puzzling trick is called Noah's ark and those who saw it yesterday could offer no satisfactory explanation or solution.

The Chevalier brothers give a first class exhibition of hand-to-hand balancing and prove versatile and smooth-working entertainers. They played at the Keith house in Boston two weeks ago and are as good in their line as any performers seen here in years.

Kid antics are at the bottom of the act of Beatrice Leon and Sybil Dawn. "The Clean Heart" is the feature motion picture this week, starring Percy Marmont, Marguerite de la Motte and Orla Harlan.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
A thrilling tale of the life of Broadway society folk together with the picture of the doings of the workaday world is "Broadway After Dark," being shown at the Merrimack Square theatre the first half of the week, with Adolphe Menjou, Anna Q. Nilsson and Carmel Myers in the leading roles. The story deals with a pampered society man who, tired of life and its gilded offerings, seeks diversion among the lower set. There he meets with Rose Dulane, victim of unfortunate circumstances. Aware of the fact that clothes make a woman, Ralph Norton sends the girl of the underworld to his set. Romance then enters young Norton's life and interesting and thrilling scenes ensue. Assisting the stars in the case are Norma Shearer, Edward Burns, Vera Lewis, Jimmy Quinn, Edgar Norton, Ethel Miller, Otto Hoffman, Lew Harvey and Michael Dark.

"Cornered," adapted from the stage play of the same name by Dodson Mitchell and Selma Selva, is the story of twins separated from childhood. One grows up in luxury while the other is thrown among the fends of the underworld. Through an unforeseen meeting the sisters are reunited, although complications hinder the smoothness of the reconciliation.

Both pictures, although dealing with "life after dark" are interesting and afford many thrilling scenes. In "Cornered" Madge Kennedy is assisted by Marie Prevost, John Roche, Raymond Hatton and Wilfred Lucas.

An interesting number from the International News Weekly and a comedy complete the bill for the first half of the week.

THE STRAND

"The Navigator" featuring Buster Keaton, comedian, par excellence, is now showing at the Strand. Funnier than ever before, Keaton plays "The Navigator" with all the skill that has made him a prime favorite in the movie world. He keeps you laughing from his first to his last appearance, his characterization of the "big" wealthy family true being all to the merry. Rejected by the girl he idolizes, he decides to honeymoon alone. Getting on the winged boat, he meets the girl of his dreams. The couple are out adrift for foreign revolutionists, and then the fun begins in earnest. Keaton gets into all kinds of difficulties. He makes coffee out of salt water, uses one of the ship's boilers as a restroom, goes to the sea bottom in a diver's suit, fights swordfish with their own weapons, gets caught by an octopus, and when he is washed upon an island, he repels an attack of cannibals by use of Roman candles and capcannets. He and the girl are saved from destruction by the timely arrival of a submarine. Keaton is supported in the picture by Kathryn McGuire.

The second big feature of the current bill is "The Truth About Women," with Hope Hampton, Lowell Sherman, Mary Thurman, David Powell and baby Dainty Love, the screen's latest baby sensation.

The story deals with modern times and modern women and involves a love triangle in which one woman loves her husband and lives for him and his baby until the "other" woman appears. The domestic happiness of the couple is wrecked by the third woman's interference. After the separation the baby dies and, in due time, a prominent writer falls in love with the unhappy mother. She attains professional success through his assistance and when she has risen to undreamed-of heights her husband tries to win her back. The Strand tells whether he does or not.

An International news reel, a regular comedy and pleasing musical oddities complete an interesting entertainment.

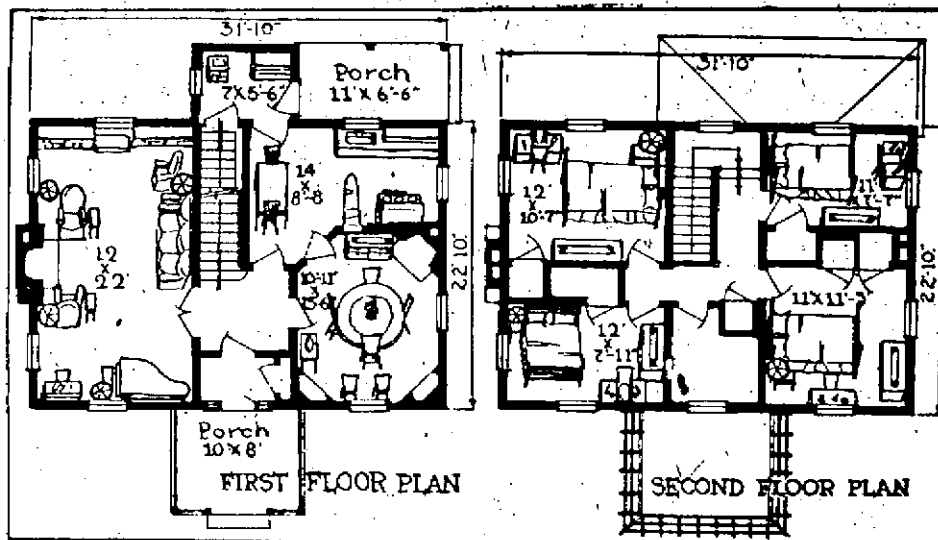

MILTO THEATRE

A picture to make you think even while you are being entertained to the nth degree. That is "By Divine Right" at Loeb's Rialto Theatre, with Elliot Dexter starring. It is his own production and he has made a film the public will simply go into ecstasies over. It is human, full of beauty and drama, with two great thrills, and a marvelous cast. Mildred Harris is beautiful in the leading feminine role, while Grace Carlisle, Anders Randolph, David Jennings, Sydney Bracey, and others make a wonderful support for the star.

This picture is a novelty, that is to say, it gets over a wonderful message even while affording most melodramatic entertainment at times. There is no preaching but a world of food for thought; there is a love story that holds like a vice and a train wreck that simply brings you to your feet. It is a story of a man who conducted a mission for the needy alien and who

Today's house is a good choice for the lot that is in the midst of a row of ordinary "square" houses.

It is not conspicuously different in size and style, which would deteriorate the value and appearance of them all, but at the same time it is an example of good architecture, and for that reason is distinctive. The "square" plan is perhaps one of the hardest to give an exterior that is well-proportioned and pleasing.

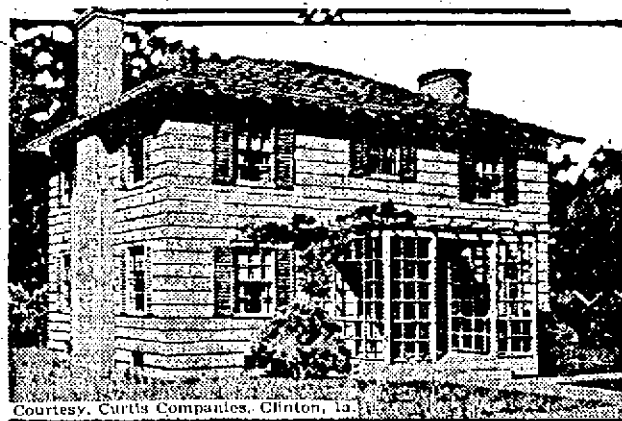

Various materials could be used in the development of the house, either separately or in combination. The architects selected wide siding, painted white, with bluish green shutters and shingle roof of the same color.

One of the most noticeable improvements is the use of twelve-light windows called Colonial windows. Another is the latticed entrance porch, so much more attractive than the usual huge, heavy affair which dominates many houses of this kind.

Seven rooms in two stories is an ideal arrangement for many families. In this excellent plan, there is a central hall, with a box stair, as well as a vestibule with a coat closet. French doors lead into the large living room, occupying one entire side of the first floor, with windows in three directions.

The hearth occupies a vantage point in the center of the long outside wall, where it is visible from the hall. Its chimney is balanced by another chimney on the other side of the house for the fireplace in the dining room. This pleasant room has its angles all softened, two by a pair of corner china closets, one by the fireplace, and the fourth by the kitchen door.

The kitchen is large, but its long

and rather narrow shape makes it unusually convenient. Ironing board, dresser and worktable are among the built-in features that lighten the housewife's task. A rear entry is provided for the handy reaching of refrigerator and basement.

Upstairs there are four corner bedrooms with cross ventilation. Each has a clothes closet and one has also a tray case built in. In the hall there is an ample linen case. One of the economical features of this house, besides its compact, square arrangement, is the use of standard materials throughout, including standardized woodwork.

It should cost about $6880 to build this house, in the average community. (Copyright, 1924, The Lowell Sun)

"You Can Do It Better With Gas"

"You Can Do It Better With Gas"

Demonstration of the Horton Ironer and

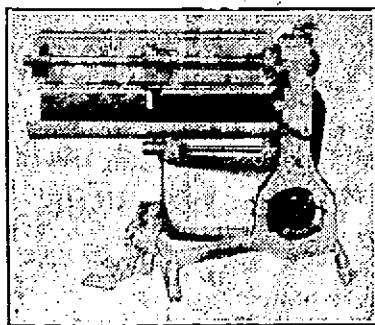

Horton Washing Machine

For five days beginning Tuesday, Oct. 14, Miss Alice Beurgelin, representing the Horton Manufacturing Company of Fort Wayne, Indiana, will demonstrate at our Appliance Store, the Horton Ironer and the Horton Washing Machine.

After a thorough investigation of the various laundry appliances on the market, and after laboratory tests, we decided upon the

Horton machine as the best that we could offer to the people of Lowell.

The Horton Company has been in business for more than fifty years. During that time they have brought to perfection the ironer and washing machine for which we have become the Lowell distributors.

The Horton Open End Ironer

is easier to operate: It requires only 22x42 inches of floor space. The full and completely open end roll, an exclusive Horton feature, makes it easy to do the entire ironing. This is a real advantage as it helps materially in handling shirts, skirts, complicated pieces and large flat work.

The Horton 3-Cup Suction Washer

was originated and adopted after years of study as the ideal method of washing clothes. It washes all kinds of clothes easier, quicker, and with less wear. The perfection of operation and the speed with which it does the work commends it to the housewife who is proud of her home.

We invite the inspection of all women who are interested in economy in the home. We know there is a big field for the Horton Ironer and Washing Machine in Lowell and feel certain that the demonstration will attract a great many housewives daily.

Gutierrez Says Report

Clash Between Political Fac-
tions Results in 100 Being
Killed or Wounded

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—A bloody clash between political factions at Tuxtla Gutierrez on Sunday, in which more than a hundred persons are said to have been killed or wounded, is reported in press despatches. The Mexican war department confirms the news of the fight, but is giving out no details. The press despatches say the trouble began when supporters of General Carlos Vidal, governor-elect of Chiapas, organized a demonstration for his reception, a large crowd gathering at the railway station. Upon General Vidal's arrival a score of shots was fired into the crowd, allegedly by supporters of Ramirez Corzo, the defeated gubernatorial candidate. The volley caused many fatalities, among them women and children, it is declared. Federal troops, rushed to the scene, were received with shots by the alleged Ramirez supporters, who had taken a stand in the government building. This was captured by the troops after a short and sanguine encounter. All persons found inside were arrested. The despatches state that the streets of the city at the scene of the encounter were strewn with dead and wounded. The chiefs of General Vidal's allies were reported to have been among those injured.

Home-made Remedy
Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family cough syrup that quickly cures. Saves about 25c.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly breaks the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

VETERAN ACTOR SPEAKS AT WOMEN'S CLUB

Frederick Ward, veteran actor of 50 years was the speaker before the Middlesex Women's club yesterday afternoon and his talk was most interesting to the large number of members who attended. Mr. Ward's reminiscences were full of humor as he told of his adventures on the stage. "Your stage today is what you make it," he said. "It is for you to kill the bad plays with the thunder of silence. The drama today is one of the most important factors of civilization and yet we are very little of it. It is not fully appreciated today, quite unlike the time when 'Macbeth,' 'Amy Robson' and other plays were the entertainment of the hour. Mr. Ward told of his association with Charlotte Cushman, Adelaide Neilson, Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett and Louis James. He also told of the many instances when supposedly well versed actors were unable to continue their sketch because of being stage struck. His various stories along this line were pleasing and interesting. Douglas Fairbanks, the idol of many theatregoers made his first appearance on the stage mainly through the influence of Mr. Ward. Fairbanks, who had long hated school because of his love for the stage at last determined to leave school. Mr. Ward took him into his company and after the usual slips of the amateur actor, Fairbanks made for himself a name which shall live throughout stage-dom. Mr. Ward was most interesting especially in reviewing his adventures with various actors of the stage of yesterday and today.

HAVERHILL MAN IS ARRAIGNED HERE

As the result of a collision at Pawtucket street and Broadway early Sunday morning, William E. Spruhen of Haverhill was arraigned in district court this morning on charges of operating an automobile in a manner to endanger the lives and safety of the public, and going away without making himself known after doing injury to persons and property. He pleaded not guilty and his case was continued to Oct. 23.

Spruhen is alleged to have been the driver of a machine owned by Robert Godfrey of Haverhill, which crashed into a car owned and driven by Fred Scott of 22 Oxford street, this city. Godfrey and Scott were knocked unconscious by the collision and were treated at the Corporation hospital.

One of the first persons to arrive on the scene after the accident was Traffic Officer Daniel P. Brannan, who, with Motorcycle Officer Daniel M. Lynch, assisted in extricating the injured parties from the wrecked car. Officer Eugene Lounget located Spruhen at his home in Haverhill some time later and brought him to this city.

got into the bad graces of a politician when he attempted to interfere in his pursuit of an innocent girl. He is railroaded to prison, gets away before reaching there through the wreck, and returns to right all wrongs. A finale climaxing essentially as a melodrama of western life, "Battling Buddy," the second of the series of eight thrillers starring Buddy Roosevelt, and which is the added feature on the bill, has a number of laughs interwoven in the action. "Fighting Blood," a Century comedy and a Fox News reel, are also included in this lengthy program. The Radio Symphonic orchestra under direction of John J. Kehoe are in the pit every evening, with Mr. Kehoe at the organ at all performances.

STRAND NEXT WEEK

"The Sea Hawk" with Milton Sills starring, is coming to The Strand. This bare announcement alone should be sufficient to interest all lovers of the best in pictures, for authoritative advance information assures the public that this dramatization is ranked with the very best made in several years. Apart from its ranking as a picture, the star, Sills, has made such a name for himself that now he is listed with the most noted of screen luminaries. His characterization is said to be unequalled on the screen in years. Assisting him is a cast of genuine favorites. "The Sea Hawk" recently played a week's engagement at Worcester and it was met with such enthusiastic acclaim by the patrons that it ran two extra weeks. This reputation together with the assurances of those who have been privileged to witness this screen classic, should satisfy local theatregoers of its superior worth. It will play at The Strand for one week, starting with Sunday's matinee.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Common Clay," as presented this week by the Stanley James players takes rank as one of the greatest shows ever shown here in stock. It is indeed a blue-ribbon offering, a human interest story line which is woven in delightful and intriguing manner, an abundance of pathos, love, humor, stark tragedy and unalloyed emotion. Miss Lillian Desmond, leading woman, has a highly emotional role which she does well. Gerald Rowan, leading man, as the errant scapegoat son of an indulgent father, sows his wild oats with a lavish hand and in the end reaps as one benefits who casts his bread upon the waters. It is a paradoxical play, a play based on the oldest of all human emotions. In this offering there are many little twists that are all a theme in themselves. Dramatic scene follows so closely upon dramatic scene that one is impressed with the fact that in "Common Clay" here truly is a drama, in actuality as well as in name. In "Common Clay" we have two stories of misguided love, misguided but not misplaced, that run along together with the same action, the same smoothness as two logs in a playful stream current. It is a sweet show, to which gladly must bring a handkerchief to dry her tears, and her escort, men being no less susceptible to an appeal.

ulation of the struggles of the working girl, must make sure all vest buttons are tightly sewed. The work of Jack Caster West, juvenile actor of the company, is outstanding. Wilmer Walter also makes a lasting impression. Miss Helen Aubrey rises to super dramatic heights in the courtroom scene where she discloses the true parentage of little Elmer Neal, the moth who was stung after she turned away from the light. Harry Fisher as the shy lawyer, who shows more interest in his client's settlement fee than the mission of burning youth, is well cast. Miss Vesie Farrel and Miss Faith Avery are not so much in the forefront in this particular play, but what falls to their lot they handle with the consummate ease and finished grace that we like and have grown to expect of them. In short, it is an excellent play in which all members of the cast show flashes that are delightful, but the show belongs to Miss Desmond and Mr. West save for that one dramatic heart-rending minute when Miss Aubrey rises to dramatic heights and focuses all eyes upon herself. The scenery is the best we have seen at the Opera House in many a day. It is a great play, presented in a manner that shows uncommon preparation. The cast: Edwards.....J. REPUBLICAN PARTY RESPONSIBLE

At the democratic rally on Friday evening Frederick W. Mansfield, nominee for state treasurer, voiced an important point that seems to be lost sight of by most voters. It is that of party responsibility. We have party government in this country, principally by two great parties, one of which is in power and the other on the outside ready to criticize anything that is wrong in the administration. That is the only way in which efficient government can be secured; but it involves party responsibility for the conduct and the failures of its chosen officials. In England as soon as the ministry loses control in parliament it has to resign. That is the real purpose of party government, in being at all times responsive to the will of the people. Our practice is different, more roundabout, but the end to be attained is the same.

In the present election, it is plain that the republican party is, and should be, held responsible for the misdeeds of its high officials at Washington, yet the party leaders are endeavoring to evade this exposure of corruption in high places by putting forward President Coolidge as the party candidate and also the platform. Coolidge, of course, is not classed with Fall, Forbes, Daugherty and Denby, but the republican party to which these officials belonged and by which they were elevated to office is responsible for their malfeasance, and because of this fact, it should be driven from power. It has failed to give the country good, clean and efficient government. On the contrary, some of the most important departments have been exploited for private gain, the property of the government has been bartered away most shamefully and the people's money appropriated for relief of the disabled veterans, squandered by unscrupulous grafters. What is the remedy? Simply to drive the republicans from power and put the democratic party in charge of the government.

In spite of conflicting claims as to the outcome of the election, there is reason to believe that this will probably be done. The people are tired of the business depression resulting from republican mismanagement, and they are likely to vote to place at the head of the government that sterling democrat, that brilliant lawyer and able statesman, John W. Davis.

It is true the situation is complicated by the candidacy of La Follette, but he will secure control of practically none but republican states so that the chances of republican success are to that extent lessened. It is on this ground that the democratic leaders expect to win a victory on November 4 as was the case in 1912 when Col. Roosevelt split the republican party.

dent that without a demand from abroad our factories will have periodic spells of dull times. There is reason to believe, however, that we are on the eve of better times and that a few months will see the end of the depression that has rested so heavily upon the textile industries of New England.

DOWN THE COOKS

Among the democratic candidates for which The Sun is asked to say a special word is Straus Chaggett, candidate for state auditor, against Alton B. Cook, the present incumbent. Cook is not only a republican but an official of the most notorious type. He has proved so narrow and incompetent that his office is regarded as a veritable plague spot even by republicans. An effort was made to throw him and his brother, Washington Cook, who obtained the nomination for the governor's council in the Fall River district, off the republican ticket, but without success. Therefore, the republicans themselves are opposed to the Cooks and hence the democrats should endeavor to elect their candidates in both cases. Mr. Chaggett has appeared at several rallies and appears to be well qualified for the position of auditor. He has challenged Auditor Cook to defend his record on the public platform, but Mr. Cook has made no response. Mr. Chaggett is a self-made man who won a college education and business success through his own industry and perseverance. The Cooks have spoiled the republican broth.

THE JUNIOR COLLEGE

This evening at 7:30 the junior college, so-called, will be started at the local high school. It offers instruction of college grade in various branches under the direction of eminent teachers. It offers great opportunities of advancement for students who have an ambition to improve their education, but who have not been able to go to college. The state, by this new method, brings the college to the doors of the students and all that is asked is that they show an earnest desire to follow the courses taken up. These have been fully outlined in recent issues of The Sun. It is not yet too late to register and those who have the time and who need such instruction should embrace the opportunity offered.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

What the people are anxiously looking for at the present time is some indication of an improvement in business. In Lowell and other New England cities engaged in the textile business there is considerable anxiety as to the future, although present indications show improvement in several lines of textile manufacture. A couple of mills in this vicinity are working overtime; but the majority are still lagging behind for lack of orders. It would seem, however, that as a result of high prices for finishing products in the northwest, there will be a demand for textile products among millions of people who for the past two years have not had money enough to buy what they wanted.

The uncertainty in regard to the ultimate size of the cotton crop is being overcome. It was an important factor in the textile depression during the past six months. It is reported that there is a steady increase in production to meet the demands of the retail trade, but most of the factories are working from hand to mouth so to speak. The large number of people who have been unemployed or working on part time schedules during the past year, have not been able to make their usual purchases; but as they are called back to work, through sheer necessity, they will soon increase the demand for the textile fabrics produced in the mills. Thus it appears that various factors are combining to increase production, lessen the unemployment and help the industries in getting back to normal conditions.

It is true, that our foreign market for textiles has been very largely cut off, and as we can produce enough to supply the domestic market in a little over six months of the year, it is evident that without a demand from

Minor accidents prevailed yesterday in which several persons were slightly injured. Automobiles cannot be blamed when children dash from unseen nooks into their paths.

It was a glorious holiday and gloriously observed.

SEEN AND HEARD

It was a great day for all of us when Columbus discovered America.

If Faustino hadn't confessed, how would Souza, the innocent one, have fared?

Getting to the bottom of the Pen-body shooting counts another feather in the Lowell police department's cap.

A Thought

Dreams—the visions of a busy brain.—Joanna Ballile.

He Found Out

As a Washington, Penn., football fan was on his way to a game, his cat drew up behind a small coupe with very small lettering on the spare tire covering. Anxious to know what was being advertised, he drove close enough to read the inscription, which said, "If you can read this you are too close."

An Old-Time Job

What's all this agitation about bobbed hair is what Mrs. Phoebe Robinson of Corlman, Me., wants to know. This 96-year-old woman bobbed her hair more than 50 years ago in order to get relief from headaches, and has continued the practice ever since. The style forced upon her by necessity proved so comfortable as well as beneficial that she didn't mind being in the minority for so many years.

He'll Draw Next Time

A Clydesdale stevedore, who was "fou," tumbled into a dock and was with difficulty saved from drowning. He thanked his rescuer warmly, and presented him with half a crown. The "long arm of coincidence" got to work, and the same thing occurred again two months later. The same man pulled him out, and he received the same heartfelt compliments. Then the stevedore stepped aside and said: "There will be no more coming 't' you this time, lad, I paid ye a retail price last time, and it should have been wholesale."

Well Directed Sarcasm

Four men were playing bridge, and the one who was "dummy" looked firmly at his partner, who had played the hand and broken every known rule of the game. "How long have you been playing bridge?" he asked. "O, about five years," replied the other. "Really," said the first, seathingly. "I had no idea it was possible to acquire such appalling ignorance of the game in so short a time."

Hamlet and Omelet

A very bad actor once ventured to appear in the part of Hamlet, but even the village audience he tried it on would not tolerate it, and he was pelted with rotten eggs. The next day two colleagues were discussing the performance. "Well," said one, "I never laughed so much in my life as when Jones came on as Hamlet." "O," retorted the other, "I laughed much more when he went off as Omelet!"

Investigation Problem

"Gentlemen," announced Senator Spang, "we have been assembling here now for two weeks or more. We have an appropriation, also a couple of clerks and a stenographer. We are an investigating committee, but whom are we investigating?" Other members present shook their heads, indicating that they did not know. "Well," he continued, "but that quickly or somebody will investigate us."

The Owl

In the hollow tree, in the old gray tower,
The spectral owl doth dwell;
Dull, inert, despatched in the sunshine hour,
But at dusk he's abroad and well!

Not a bird of the forest 'er makes with him,
All mock him outright by day;
But at night, when the woods grow still,
He still and dim.

The bold owl will shrink away!
O, when the night falls, and roosts the fowl,
Then, there, is the reign of the horned owl!

And the owl hath a bride, who is fond and dim,
And loveth the wood's deep gloom;
And, with eyes like the shine of the moonstone,
She watcheth her ghastly groom.

Not a feather she moves, not a carol she sings,
As she waits in her tree so still;
But when her heart heareth his flapping wings,
She hoots out her welcome shrill!

O, when the moon shines and dogs do howl,
Then, there, is the joy of the horned owl!

Mourn, not for the owl, nor his gloomy plight;
The owl hath his share of good;
If a personer he be in the broad daylight,
He is lord in the dark greenwood!

Nor lonely the bird, nor his ghastly mate,
They are each unto each a prize;
Thrice fonder, perhaps, since a strange, dark night,
Hath rent him from all beside!

So, when the night falls, and dogs do howl,
Sing, hark! for the reign of the horned owl!

We know not always
Who are things by day,
But the king of the night is the bold brown owl!

SISTER OF LADY CARNARVON WEDS

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Miss Philippa Wodehouse sister of Lady Carnarvon and daughter of the late Jacob Wendell of New York was married today to the Earl of Galloway at St. Margaret's church, Westminster.

Will Elect Two Members of High School Commission will preside at the session, the mayor being unable to attend because of illness. Without the mayor there are 21 persons eligible to vote, six being members of the school board and fifteen being members of the city council.

Only two persons have been mentioned thus far for the vacancies. They are Julius B. Keyes, treasurer of the Mechanics' Savings bank and William F. Barrett, attorney and son of Andrew J. Barrett. Mr. Keyes this morning said that he had been unaware that his name was being mentioned, never having been approached on the proposition.

City Auditor's Report

The monthly report of the city auditor, including the financial data of all departments for the month of September, was received by the auditor and distributed to various offices in the city hall today. Politicians gave scant attention to the issue because of the fact that tomorrow the quarterly report giving the financial statistics for the first 9 months of the calendar year will be given out. It is to this report that the politicians customarily look for the most of their data for comparisons or attacks upon the conduct of municipal finances.

City Auditor Martin will have his report with him tonight when he appears before the finance committee of the council, charged with looking into the request of the mayor that another additional appropriation, this time for $35,000, be given to the charities department. In view of the recent investigation of the street department the auditor's summary of the financial status of that department will also undoubtedly be scanned with avidity.

New Voters Register

Applicants for registration continue to flock in large numbers to the office of the board of elections in city hall. This morning found a score or more waiting to get their names on the voting lists when the office was opened at 9 o'clock. Prospective voters continued to come in a steady stream throughout the day.

Tomorrow is the last day of registration and the board has voted to keep its office in city hall open from 9 o'clock tomorrow morning through until 10 o'clock tomorrow night.

Public Service Board

A special meeting of the board of public service is likely to be called tomorrow to discuss with City Engineer Stephen Kearney the work programs of the street and sewer departments for the remainder of the construction year. City Engineer Kearney, at the direction of the board in meeting last Wednesday, has asked the solicitor to interpret the provisions of the city charter which defines the relationship and duties of the city engineer and the board of public service.

Up to noon the engineer had not received a reply from the solicitor. Upon receipt of a letter from the solicitor to the board of public service is expected to be called into special session by Chairman Dennis J. Murphy. The board is anxious that there be no further delays in the resumption of a high-speed effective program in the streets and sewer department, and to co-operate to interpret the provisions of the city charter which defines the relationship and duties of the city engineer and the board of public service.

City Council Meeting

A late session of the city council is expected tonight, a delayed start being almost certain because of other meetings scheduled to be held in city hall tonight. The finance committee of the council meets at 7 o'clock with the city auditor, the superintendent of charities, the city solicitor, the assessors and the auditors to discuss the proposal of the mayor that $35,000 be transferred from the treasury reserve to the charities department. Other matters, including the financing of proposed playgrounds, are also come before the committee together with any loan orders at present in the council or likely to be presented at tonight's session.

Following the meeting of the finance committee, and it would not be surprising if some inquisitive council members made this rather a long and perhaps heated session, the council is to meet in joint conference with the school board at 8 o'clock for election of two new members of the high school building commission. After that the session of the council adjourned last Tuesday night, will commence.

NEW CAMBRIDGE CHURCH

Dedicates New Edifice of St. Paul's Around Corner

Expresses Regret That Harvard Has Departed From Fundamental Principles

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 14.—Dedicating the new edifice of St. Paul's Roman Catholic church, around the corner from Harvard University, Cardinal O'Connell yesterday took occasion to couple with reference to Harvard's greatness and influence regret that it had departed from fundamental principles, the fundamental principle upon which the basis of truth must be created.

The Cardinal said Harvard was a great school, where millions have been poured out generously, and paid tribute to the devotion of teachers and professors in the pursuit of truth. The university is a tremendous influence, he said.

"But there is always a 'but' when some centuries ago some of the great schools of Europe, like Oxford and Cambridge, forgot their duty to their master, the church, and sought for truth, and in many cases carried it on nobly, in scientific work, and in some cases historic work, and in letters, in literature and in the arts, they have done a noble work.

"Of this course they have just missed the real thing. They have some truth. They have not all the truth, unfortunately. They have missed it because they have cut off the light. Now, we are not saying that in any spirit of enmity. We are only saying it in a deep spirit of regret.

"If Harvard looks fine, it has a certain usefulness. It does without doubt a very large amount of good in a civic way. Not always, because of course, without first principles, and it is to be very careful even in civic pride. But nevertheless, let us be true and say that if, with all that she is in possession of, this school had the faith of Christ, for which she was supposed to have been erected, her influence would be supreme, tremendous, and we would be the first to gather around her."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Official Washington today was considering what effect the Collier's Weekly announcement of the withdrawal of Henry Ford from the bidding for Muscle Shoals would have on the political situation and the development of gigantic government properties.

Apparently, the Detroit manufacturer, after occupying the center of the stage in a heated controversy that consumed the attention of congress for two years has voluntarily withdrawn, and announced his position through the magazine. As far as can be learned the White House, war department and congressional committee, dealing directly with Muscle Shoals, have received no official information of the withdrawal.

Washington was equally interested in Ford's reported advocacy of the administration's proposal to create an impartial commission to study the

the work forward if unhampered. During the committee hearing the Ford supporters opposed these proposals and charged they were merely measures to thwart the Ford bid.

Henry Ford has retired from the bidding, members of congress favoring his bid will probably establish affiliation with other groups before December when the Muscle Shoals issue will come up on the senate calendar as the first order of business.

Official word no story would be taken until it was learned officially that Ford had definitely withdrawn from Muscle Shoals.

When you comb a kid's hair, why it surely would seem that he'd kinda be proud of his looks. But listen here, folks, that is only a dream that you read of in fairy-tale books.

A child stands and frets while his features are scrubbed. At the washbowl he seldom stands pat. He's kinda afraid that he'll likely be dubbed a sissy or something like that.

When you dress a boy up in the best suit he's got and you know that he couldn't look better, he'll honestly tell you it's all tommyrot and he'd rather go round in his sweater.

Aw, ya can't make a hero of real little boys by washin's and trimmin's and such. Just bandage a finger they've cut on some toys and you give 'em the real hero touch.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

ON THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA

THERE HE WAS UP IN THE SKY WHERE THE TWINS HAD LEFT HIM

Nancy and Nick and the Sand Man stood on the bottom of the sea where they had come to hunt for the lost sleepy sand.

It did seem as though the babies on the earth would have to stay awake all night, for no sooner would the twins find the sand and start home with it than something would happen and away it would go again.

The last thing that happened was that it caught on a mountain top and rolled down and fell into the sea.

"Hello, here!" said a little man riding up on a sea-horse. "What's the matter?"

"Oh, sir," cried Nancy, "we've lost the sleepy sand and it's moon-up on the earth and the babies can't go to sleep. We thought perhaps the sand was here some place. It rolled down into the sea."

"We have loads of sand as you can see," said Capt. Pennywinkle, for that was the little sea fairy's name. "But you may as well try to look for a lost leaf in a forest as to come to the bottom of the sea for sand."

"But it is in a sack," said the poor Sand Man. "And if it's anywhere near, it will come when you call it, like a pet dog or cat. All you have to do is to say 'Hurry, hurry,' and there it is right on your shoulder."

Hardly were the magic words out of the Sand Man's mouth than the sack of sleepy sand jumped from the place where it had been lying behind some seaweed.

"Well, well, well!" laughed fat little Capt. Pennywinkle. "I certainly am surprised. I never would have thought

it. Right there all the time and nobody knew it!"

"Little owls and ballets!" said the Sand Man joyfully. "At last, our troubles are over. Thank you, captain, for your kind words. We didn't need your help or the help of your Wiggles people after all. Good-bye, sir! Come on, twins!"

But something else was happening at that very minute, and the Sand Man and the Twins were not through. Two canoes, the Gnomes, was as cross as three sticks about losing the sleepy sand that he had stolen.

There he was up in the sky on a star where the Twins had left him, raging and raging and raging.

While he was still raging he happened to look down just in time to see the sleepy sand roll into the sea, and the Sand Man and the Twins jump in after it.

He stopped raging at once and began to grin.

"Ah, ha!" he said, pulling his belt in another notch. "Here is where I make a high dive!"

And to the horror of the Moon Man and the Dream Maker Man who saw the whole thing, he jumped from the star straight down toward the earth, and smashed into the sea at the exact spot where the Twins and the Sand Man were talking to Captain Pennywinkle.

And just as the sack with the magic sand touched the Sand Man's shoulder, Tweedledee grabbed it and swam off into the darkness.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 24

The whirring sound grew louder and louder and finally the great plane swooped down and landed very gracefully right in the center of the open space. "Let's go down and see who it is and what's the matter," suggested the guide. So everybody in the tree hut hurried down to the ground.

"Hi there," shouted Jack, as he approached the plane. "Hi, yourself," shouted the aviator, as he started to get out of the plane seat. Then the whole of the exploring party surrounded the plane and the fier shock hands with them all. He explained that he was on his way to India and just came down to rest.

"India?" shouted Jack. "Gee, I wish I could go with you." "Well, you can," replied the aviator. "I've got an extra seat and you and your dog and monkey can join me if you want to see all the sights of that country." Jack Daw's next adventure will be among the Thrills of India.

Balanced Meals

Expensive foods do not, of necessity, mean healthful foods. Mrs. Mann had long since learned this and made application of the moral in her household.

Thus, tomatoes may cost 10 cents each in winter but they do nothing to build up body tissues nor do they furnish fuel for the body so necessary in the cold months. As a summer food they furnish vitamins and minerals, but when their cost rises their food value is negligible.

So it is with many other costly things as well.

Thus the responsibility that descends upon a housewife is great when it comes to planning meals. Much as we may be apt and general health of all diners improved by arrangement of a carefully balanced meal.

The appetite is not always a safe guide. Don't let it rule your menu.

down to the 20-yard line, Triggs tried his toe, but failed on a drop kick attempt. It was soon after Textile had put the ball in play on her 20-yard line that a disastrous fumble was recovered by J. Smith and Providence crashed through for the only score of the game.

Twice in the fourth period when Textile recovered Providence' fumbles the home rooters gained hope, but the drive was not there,

NOTES OF THE GAME

Umpire Crawford armed himself with a "gail," a horn, and a watch—everything but a "black jack." At the end of the first period when the gun was fired denoting its termination the crowd got a good laugh out of it.

Textile made its first "first down" after two minutes of play in the second period.

Providence had a nice running and driving attack but within shadow of the "Tex" goal they lacked the punch to push it over.

Brosnan, "Tex" quarter and end, was talking it up every minute.

Corbett loses 10 or 12 yards on the length of his kicks by standing so far back of the line of scrimmage. It's fine for protection but not so good for yardage.

Corbett made an attempt for goal in the second period from the 40-yard line but the ball fell short about six yards.

"Joe" Farby, Providence right end, played a while of a game, both on the offensive and defensive. "I didn't mean to do that—I was mad," said Farby, after his team had been punitized 15 yards for his holding in the last period.

"Chet" Sears, an amateur boxer, and brother of "Al" Sears, is on the Providence team.

Smith made a nice run after recovering a fumble in the fourth period.

Grouse, who replaced Reall at left guard, is a Lowell boy, well known here, and is playing great football for the Rhode Islanders.

The Providence coach, Fred Huggins, gave the boys a talking to between halves. No words were "minced."

Delmar, Providence's linbacker, hurt his knee in the first period. Last week's game with Vermont was his first game of the season, as early in the season during practice, he hurt his knee. He's a good man and returned to the game in the second half.

Triggs, fullback for "Prov," in the second half, hits the line hard and is a great broken field runner.

A touchdown was thrown away by "Prov" in the third period, when on Tex's five-yard line McGlooth threw supposedly to Triggs, who wasn't there. The ball was intercepted by a Tex player and a West team field goal.

JUNIORATE DEDICATED

Thousands Attend Impressive Ceremonies of Marist Order on Old Tyng Estate

Cardinal Represented by Provincial—Choirs From Many Cities Are Represented

The new Juniorate of the Marist brothers situated on a lofty knoll on the Tyng estate facing the Princeton boulevard in Tyngsboro, was dedicated Sunday afternoon with impressive religious ceremonies which were attended by over 7500 persons from Lowell and other nearby cities.

Among the throng which gathered to celebrate the dedication of the new Juniorate were many nobles of the Marist order and priests of the diocese. The principal speakers were Rev. Augustine F. Hickey, P.M., supervisor of Catholic schools in the diocese, and Rev. A. Rabal, provincial of the Marist order, who represented the cardinal. The majority of the laity present were French speaking people, but it is among them that the Marist brothers have labored tirelessly since the order was introduced in this country from France in 1855. Lowell was officially represented by its mayor, and George B. Trudell of Manchester, N. H., was also among the nobles present.

Choirs of Many Cities
The dedication ceremony opened with the singing of the hymn to the Holy Name by a choir consisting of the boys of the Marist schools in Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill and Manchester, accompanied by St. Anne's band of Lawrence. Rev. Brother Abysius was in charge of the music.

Seated on the platform were Mayor

Donovan of Lowell, Mayor Trudell of Manchester, Rev. A. Rabal, Rev. F. Hickey, Rev. John J. Crane, pastor of St. John's church, North Chelmsford; Rev. Bro. Zephirine, former provincial of the Marist order; Rev. Bro. Gabriel, Canadian provincial of the Marist order.

VERY REV. BRO. LEO, Provincial

Rev. Bro. Leo, provincial; Rev. Bro. Angelicus, assistant supervisor general of the Marist order; Rev. Bro. John Casimir, director; and Rev. Bro. Haverhill of the Marist school in Manchester, N. H.; Rev. Bro. Victor, director of the Haverhill school; Rev. Bro. Alphonsus, director of the Lawrence school; and Rev. Bro. Edmund, director of the new Juniorate who had charge of the arrangements for the dedication.

Rev. Bro. Rabal was the first speaker introduced. Speaking in French, he congratulated the brothers of the school for their devotion to duty and the peace of the city for the beautiful new building which, he said, would stand for years to come as a monument of the faith of those who assisted in building the school. He told of the splendid devotion to their work by the Marist brothers and said the order would grow to be one of the most important in the country.

Following the singing of "O Canada," Rev. Bro. Hickey was introduced. "We have gathered here this afternoon," he said, "to ask the blessing of God on this edifice erected as a Juniorate of the Marist order. This hour is dear to us and we cannot but feel proud of this building which typifies the devotion of its founders. Here under this roof young men will prepare for a life of holy work; they will go forth from here fired with the knowledge and determination that will implant in the hearts of all a true appreciation of life and the responsibilities of life before God and man.

To Uphold Tradition

"Religion and history," he continued, "go hand in hand through the centuries and are the greatest bulwarks for any country, and for two centuries the story of the Catholic church has been the story of education, and will be to the end of all things. In this country especially the traditions of the Catholic church are being nobly upheld. Year by year new schools are dedicated to God and thousands of young men attend these schools, where it is a doctrine that religion and education must go together that one cannot be divorced from the other and exist."

In closing, Fr. Hickey congratulated all who were connected with the erection of the building and asked the blessing of God for its success and the success of all who attend it. The hymn to St. Joseph was next sung by the combined choirs and was followed by the blessing of the building by Fr. Rabal, assisted by Fr. Crane.

Rev. Leo a Speaker

Rev. Bro. Leo was the next speaker and briefly traced the work of those connected with the erection of the building in purchasing the site and collecting the funds for its construction, and thanked all who had any part in the work.

A large American flag was then hoisted and unfurled while the gathering sang "The Star Spangled Banner." The clergy and invited guests present then went to the assembly hall of the Blessed Sacrament where the Mass was celebrated by Rev. John J. Crane. Upon the conclusion of this service, the building was thrown open for general inspection by the public, and a large majority of those in attendance at the services took advantage of the opportunity to view the interior of the building.

Brief History

The Tyng estate was purchased by the Marist Brothers in 1921 and the old inn on the property was used by the Brothers as a school and summer home for several years. This building proved inadequate for school purposes and plans were made early in 1922 to build a big school that would be a credit to the order and would serve the needs of those who desired to study for a religious life in the Marist order. Plans advanced rapidly and over a year ago actual construction work was begun on the Juniorate. It was completed a short while ago and is the second Marist Brothers' Juniorate in this country, the only one being in Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The building is four stories in height. The first floor is set aside for studies and rooms of the brothers, the second is occupied by classrooms, a chapel and infirmary; on the third floor are more class rooms and the dormitory and a second chapel are on the top floor. The basement contains all heating equipment and a laundry.

Registration Soon

The building is well lighted and the fittings are most modern throughout. In the rear of the Juniorate is an

WINTER SCHEDULE AT THE COMMODORE

Beginning tonight the winter schedule will go into effect at the Commodore ballroom and in the future "Mal" Hallett will be at this resort on three evenings each week, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. "Mal" and his team will be on hand to open the season this evening playing for check dancing starting at 8:30 and continuing until 12. The same lively program which has characterized Hallett's visits at the Commodore will be in order and the usual pleasant evening may be enjoyed by the patrons. The admission will be the same as heretofore, 10 cents.

Here is an announcement that will undoubtedly create a great deal of enthusiasm among the dance followers of the city—Paul Specht's Carolina Club orchestra has been booked for an engagement at the Commodore ballroom for Friday evening of this week. Manager Roane made the announcement today after negotiations with the management of the much-talked about aggregation and feels that this attraction will draw a large gathering to hear this celebrated team.

Paul Specht and his orchestra have returned to the United States after an engagement at the Piccadilly hotel in London where they played to large and appreciative gatherings among those present being the Prince of Wales. On his recent trip to this country he had with him the steamship Berengaria which was returning on the same ship and during the trip played for dancing which brought forth words of commendation from the prince.

Press reports from all over the country have spoken highly of the orchestra as it has been in several of the largest cities in the country. It has played as a headliner in F. F. Keith's theatre, music halls, clubs and cafes and while in New York city has been frequently heard on the radio by local fans.

Mark the calendar Friday evening this week and make it a point to hear this famous orchestra.

COMMUNITY CHEST CAMPAIGN IS ON

Lowell's community chest campaign will soon be functioning under the leadership of competent managing director. It is probable that an active canvass of the city at large will be made within a few weeks.

Plans for the formal start of the campaign that is to enroll the city of Lowell in the community chest category of municipalities centralizing and co-ordinating work in the distribution of charitable funds for the indigent relief of needy inhabitants, are to be consummated at a meeting of ambitious, earnest local community chest supporters, tomorrow.

It was announced this morning that J. A. Willes of New York city, leader and advisor in numerous community chest campaigns conducted recently with complete success in twelve different cities, will come to Lowell tomorrow to give local workers full information and instruction needed in the campaign soon to start here.

Mr. Willes is a member of the American City Bureau's executive personnel. The Lowell community chest campaign has been agreed unanimously to have this bureau conduct the coming campaign. Mr. Willes will tomorrow explain to the local committee just how the campaign should be started, and reveal some important programs necessary for adoption before the first start is initiated.

The American City Bureau has been chosen to supervise the local campaign on condition that it can take up the work within the immediate future. It is possible—and highly probable—that the program for Lowell's effort to adopt the all-inclusive charitable community chest idea will start about the first of next month, although no definite date has actually been suggested by the committee handling the details.

The decision to have the American City Bureau organization conduct the local campaign, was made at a meeting of the directors of the Lowell community chest committee, held last Friday afternoon, and was in conformity with the recommendations of a committee consisting of Mrs. J. Gilbert Hill, Donald Cameron and Benjamin S. Pouszner. Before making the recommendations, the committee had heard the representatives of five different organizations, who responded to an invitation broadcasted to all campaign agencies to present their plans.

There are today fifteen local organizations enthusiastically supporting the Lowell Community chest idea—plans of raising money to be used in the various charitable enterprises conducted by each of the organizations in the amalgamated movement. Briefly, the idea of the community chest is to conduct one city-wide campaign each year, so that solicitors and contributors alike may have but one demand made upon them for contributions of funds.

During his visit to Lowell tomorrow, the American City Bureau representative, Mr. Willes, will describe the successful operations of the community chest plan in other cities. A new campaign has also started in Ashland, O.

THIS WOMAN'S MARVELLOUS RECOVERY

All Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Truman, Minn.—"I was badly run-down and had pains in my side and back; sometimes I couldn't hardly move around in bed. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking it I was so much better I could do all my housework, have a garden, raise chickens, and in harvest time I worked in the field and helped pick corn. Sometimes I do chores and milk. I took the Vegetable Compound before and after my four-months-old baby was born and it has always helped me wonderfully. I believe there is no better medicine made for women, and I hope every woman will give it a fair trial."

—Mrs. AUGUST K. WIEDERHOF, R. No. 2, Box 84, Truman, Minnesota.

Women suffering from troubles so common to their sex should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

LOWELL CHURCH WINS LEAGUE HONORS

Competing with 54 other organizations engaged in similar religious and charity work, the Church of All Nations on Worthen street, yesterday won for the third successive time honors in registering highest percentages of members present, at the October convention of the Epworth league held in Worcester. The Lowell church contest percentage yesterday was 23.

Rev. Leslie C. Rockes, active leader of the local organization, supervised the trip of 13 members of the Worthen street church to the Worcester convention. The local church Epworth league chapter also was awarded contest percentage honors for the longest distance to the convention. The Lowell delegates thoroughly enjoyed the trip to the heart of the commonwealth and found much in the day's convention proceedings to encourage the work here at home in the Worthen street religious organization.

Rev. William E. Anderson, new bishop of the Boston area of the Methodist churches, made his first official visitation to Wesley church, where the conference was conducted, yesterday. He pleaded eloquently for "more evangelism in New England," and appealed to the ministers of his denomination to co-operate with him in increasing evangelism in all the Methodist churches. The bishop also addressed the young people in the afternoon.

The forenoon session of the Epworth league convention, which was attended by the Lowell delegates led by Pastor Rockes, was devoted to departmental conferences of interest to the extension work ahead. Rev. Matt Vance of Ashburnham was in charge of spiritual development instruction. Rev. Homer L. Slutz of Providence, led a discussion upon the topic, "Stewardship for Leaguers." The conference on "Citizenship Through Progressivity," was led by Ruth Olive Halford of Boston.

The church of All Nations' capturing of the Epworth league percentage-of-attendance banner yesterday, came after three successive awards. The first two highest marks were scored at the convention held on April 19 and Labor Day.

WOULD REMOVE SEC. HUGHES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, was quoted in a statement issued today by the La Follette-Wheeler campaign headquarters as demanding the "immediate removal of Charles Evans Hughes from his post as secretary of state and investigation of his connection with the Austro-Italian shipping concern." Mr. Johnston was represented in the statement as declaring that "Hughes put through a deal for the concern which cost taxpayers thousands of dollars." The statement referred in matters brought up in hearings of the house shipping board committee.

BOSTON SCHOONER LOST, CREW RESCUED

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—News was received here today of the loss at sea of the four-masted schooner Alcaeus, which foundered on Sunday morning at 27 north, longitude 70 west, while on the way from Norfolk, Va., to Calais, Me., with a cargo of 3000 tons of coal.

The schooner, according to a radio message received by the owners today, was last seen on Sunday morning, when it was caught in a heavy blow and badly pounded. Her sails opened and the vessel finally tilted. Captain Pearce and his crew of 11 men were taken off by the Swedish motor ship Stureholm, Tampa, which was on duty in the area.

The schooner was built in 1921 at Stockton Springs, Me.

SHENANDOAH AWAITS PASSING OF STORM

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Oct. 14.—The fourth morning of the navy dirigible Shenandoah's stay at North Island found her swinging at the mooring mast, fully provisioned, felled, gassed and repaired, but awaiting the passage of a storm blowing in the north Pacific before casting loose for Los Angeles, San Francisco and other points north.

The decision not to depart this morning, as planned, was reached in the night after Rear Admiral William Moffett, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics, and Lieutenant-Commander Zachary Lansdowne, commander of the great dirigible, agreed that it would be useless to risk bucking the storm.

To Avert Disturbances

SHANGHAI, Oct. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—New Chinese administrators ruling Shanghai for the Peking government, as a result of the defeat of the Chekiang forces, today worked in conjunction with foreign authorities, confident they would be able to avert disturbances incident to the change in local government.

Armistice Signed

SHANGHAI, Oct. 14.—(By the Associated Press) After a final stand at Hwangsin, 15 miles west of Shanghai, the Chekiang troops defending the city against onslaught of armies backed by the Chinese Central government at last have admitted their defeat.

Foreign observers in the Sung Kiang sector, reported this (Tuesday) morning that an armistice was arranged at 5 p. m. yesterday, after which both sides ceased firing. Advance guards of the retreating Chekiang troops arriving this morning from the Hwangsin, Kiating and Tsinan sectors declared similar arrangements had been perfected there.

Return Without Leaders

SHANGHAI, Oct. 14.—(By the Associated Press) Large numbers of Chekiang troops today were returning here without leaders or officers from the battle front.

A train carrying officials who had been arranging for the protection of foreign residents in the zone of conflict, was fired on by mistake, but no details of the attack were forthcoming.

note to his chauffeur, telling him where the body would be found. He was a bachelor and for years had lived alone.

The note ascribed no motive. A verdict of suicide was returned by the coroner after he and the police had made a complete investigation.

Penciled in an uncertain hand on separate stationery, the senator's message said:

"October 13, 1924.
"Dear George: I enclose $100 for you and $100 for Emma and Rufus. I am up in the bathroom on the top floor near 17th street. The top floor. The floor above the one I sleep on. If you or Lundy come up there beware of the gas.
"Good bye.
"FRANK B. BRANDEGEE."

Planned to the note were two $100 bills. Emma and Rufus, referred to by the senator, are Emma and Rufus Kennedy, negroes, servants of Mr. Brandegee. The chauffeur is George Jones.

Two sentences in the note—"the top floor. The floor above the one I sleep on."—were written in red crayon, as though inserted or an after-thought.

The senator was last seen alive by Jones and W. W. Lundy, his secretary, on the morning of Oct. 13, when he went for a ride with Jones about the city. Jones said he seemed then to be in the best of spirits and health, remarking time and again during the ride about how beautiful a day it was.

It was about 10 o'clock the night before that his servants, but his bed had been untouched except for the note lying on it.

Lundy and Jones instituted a search upon their arrival at the home shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. The note was first found when they went into his bedroom.

In his dying moments the sixty-year old senator had crumpled a bath rug beneath his head for a pillow. The end of a small rubber tube, attached to an open gas jet still was in his hand.

Senator Brandegee had no living immediate relatives. Mr. Lundy took charge of the funeral plans and announced that the burial probably would be in New London, Conn., Mr. Brandegee's birthplace and home.

The residence occupied here by Senator Brandegee had been owned by him for some time. It is a rather spacious dwelling, close to the downtown section and had been the scene of many important conferences among the leaders of the senate.

Although he once was a comparatively rich man, his friends said today that he had suffered heavy losses in recent years. He was a lawyer by profession, but for some time has been heavily interested in real estate.

Senator Brandegee was chairman of the Senate Judiciary committee and one of the republican leaders on the Foreign Relations committee. A close personal and political friend of Senator Lodge, the republican floor leader, he has been one of the circle of senators which have had most to say in the conduct of senate affairs since the republicans regained a majority in congress.

Senator Brandegee was a native of New London where he maintained his home until his death. He had been in the senate for almost 20 years.

The most conspicuous part played by Mr. Brandegee in recent years was in the League of Nations fight. Taking a position from the start with the irreconcilable opponents of the Versailles treaty, he drew the powerful weight of the senate's ability against the treaty and the league covenant during the long senate debate and later at the Chicago republican convention in 1920 was one of those irreconcilables who laid down before leaders a virtual threat to leave the ranks of republicanism unless the national platform contained a provision which would uphold the republican senators opposed to ratification.

During the last session of congress the Connecticut senator was not active on the floor. His health had begun to show the effects of his years but he continued until the last a spirited career of republican congressional leadership on all important questions of policy.

Friends Shocked

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Secretary of War John W. Weeks, through the republican national committee issued a statement today concerning the death of Senator Brandegee in Washington.

Mr. Weeks expressed regret to learn that Senator Frank B. Brandegee has committed suicide. I have been entirely familiar with his personal business affairs and I know the reason for taking this rash step in personal financial troubles resulting from investments in real estate.

Representative John Q. Tilson of New Haven, Conn., in charge of the republican speakers' bureau of the eastern states, said "I am very much shocked" when informed by The Associated Press of the death of Senator Brandegee.

"I knew for some time of his falling health and his financial trouble," Mr. Tilson said. "It was a great shock to all of us in Connecticut. Senator Brandegee became strong and influential and came to be recognized as one of the leaders of the senate."

Means Special Election

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 14.—The news of the death of United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee came with such suddenness today that for the time being no one in official position in the state could say what would be taken to fill the vacancy.

It was evident, however, that an election could not be held on Nov. 4th. The constitution of the United States provides for popular election of senators and the statutes of Connecticut provide that all non-incumbent senators must be elected no later than three weeks before election day.

Under the statutes today is the last day for filing nominations with the secretary of state for the November election.

It is stated, with authority that it would be impossible to file nominations for U. S. senator today and therefore the procedure would be for the governor, at some later date, to call a special election.

Good Friend and Fair foe
NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Thomas J. Sheehan, Connecticut democratic leader and eastern director of the democratic national campaign, characterizing Mr. Brandegee as a "good friend and a fair foe," declared he was both

GAVE ILLUSTRATED TALK ON CANADA

A talk on Canada by Daniel A. MacKay of the Canadian National Railways, illustrated with three beautiful reels of motion pictures, was the feature of today's meeting of the Lions club, held at noon in Y.M.C.A. hall.

Following luncheon, President Dr. Forrest Martin presided at a short business meeting at which routine business was transacted and then introduced Mr. MacKay.

The first reel shown was "Salmon Fishing in New Brunswick." As the scene unfolded on the screen, the places shown were interestingly described by Mr. MacKay. "White Weather" was the title of the second reel and contained views of the annual winter carnivals in Montreal and at Banff and Lake Louise in the Canadian Northwest. The final reel was "A Scenic Wonderland." This was made up of pictures taken in Jasper National park in the heart of the Canadian Rockies in Alberta. Mr. MacKay described the beauties of the various mountains, lakes and valleys shown in the pictures was very interesting and he was accorded a rising vote of thanks by club members at the conclusion of his talk.

LIQUOR CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

George J. Skalkas and Faciles Hourlies, proprietor and clerk, respectively, of the Minerva cafe in Market street, were arraigned in district court this morning, the former for illegally keeping liquor, and the latter for illegally selling. Both pleaded not guilty and were continued to Oct. 25.

Israel Lambert, who was arrested for illegal keeping after a raid Saturday night in the rear of 31 Essex st., pleaded guilty and was fined $100.

ZR-3 On Way to U. S.

however, the ZR-3 apparently was encountering weather troubles in a strong northwest wind, which was holding her up seriously, the rate of her progress having dropped to no more than 25 miles an hour. She was then about 2500 miles from Lakshurst, and almost due east of that point.

Within a brief period, however, the giant dirigible seems to have shaken off the blow, or possibly to have found a favoring current, for in the next three hours, at the end of which she was next reported, she had progressed some 100 miles, was traveling at 75 miles an hour pace. She had worked slightly to the north of her former position, but still was not in any marked degree out of the air line course for her goal.

75 Miles an Hour

CHATHAM, Oct. 14.—A message received at 11 o'clock last evening from the giant dirigible ZR-3 gave her position as 42.50 degrees north latitude and 17.20 degrees west longitude. At that hour the airship gave her speed as 75 miles an hour.

Early reports had shown the dirigible making only 25 knots an hour against strong southwest winds, and the speed given at 11 o'clock indicated that the weather had improved. The position of the vessel at that hour also showed that she was making rapid progress in her flight to Lakshurst, N. J. The position was approximately 1300 miles from destination.

Patrol Ordered Home

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Naval vessels sent out to meet the dirigible ZR-3 on her flight from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakshurst, N. J., have been ordered home, it became known here today.

The cruiser Detroit, which acted as information ship for the flight and the supply ship Patoka, sent out as station ship, will return at once and the cruiser Milwaukee, relay vessel for the flight, will leave as soon as the ZR-3 has passed her position.

Lakshurst Ready For ZR-3

DIRECTOR HANGAR, Naval Air Station, Lakshurst, N. J., Oct. 14 (By the Associated Press)—This huge air park, destined home of the ZR-3, is ordered under emergency regime at 13 o'clock today.

The 25 officers and 400 sailors and marines were on their toes at dawn, however. Word had flashed over the field during the night that direct communication had been established with the big dirigible, and that all was well with her, and that she might be expected late tonight or early tomorrow.

So this morning there began in earnest all the maneuvering of paraphernalia and personnel which has been rehearsed long and often.

Whirling motors did open and shut the ponderous doors of the high-domed guest room which awaits the visitor. Landing signals were inspected again and loaded upon trucks, ready for quick transportation to the settling spot during the night. Any designate for the big bag when it poked a cautious nose over the horizon.

White canvas letters of heroic proportions there were, to be laid out facing skyward, if the landing were by day; and rolls of electric lights for similar disposition if the ship came in at night.

Of the dim vastness of the hangar and into the sunlight were wheeled a Martin bomber and a DH-4 observation plane, big craft of their kind.

These planes are on special duty here. They will be fueled and will be kept at the taking-off line ready to dash to sea at a moment's notice if the dirigible should meet an emergency as it nears the end of its long pilgrimage.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 14.—Senator Robert M. La Follette, independent presidential candidate, issued this statement today:

NEW LOOMS OPERATING IN MUSKETQUID MILLS

Forty-four of the new Draper-made Northrup looms, part of the recently purchased equipment of 12 of the latest labor-saving machines used in modern production of woolen cloths, were in operation this morning at the Musketquid plant of the U. S. Woolen corporation's branch plant on Davidson street.

The product of the latest invention in textile looms is said to be highly satisfactory. Under the old-style of operating looms for similar woolen cloth manufacture, a single operative could run but two looms. Four looms can now be operated by one worker with the Draper Northrup installations.

Appleton mills resumed curtailed operations this morning, after a two weeks' shutdown. Production on three-day schedules will be the schedule as usual, for the present.

Massachusetts cotton mills resumed operations in its piece goods with the usual curtailed schedules.

The automobile, which will be known as the "Prince of Wales," will be assembled while the Prince looks on, and will be put together in an effort to break the present production record of the plant, which is 11 minutes and 40 seconds.

MOTOR COACH LINE WELL PATRONIZED

Traffic on the Lowell-Boston motor coach line yesterday so exceeded all expectations of street railway company officials that, although two extra buses were pressed into service, there were several persons who could not be accommodated each trip.

One of the old style buses was called in for Quinlan to serve on the line and the spare coach was also put into service. Double-deckers were sent out on nearly every trip and there were but one or two vacant seats on any of the buses.

Officials of the company were well pleased with the patronage of the bus line yesterday and it is believed that several new buses will be ordered in the near future so that when the traffic to summer resorts begins next June the company will be in a position to provide ample transportation facilities.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Price movements lacked a definite trend at the opening of today's stock market. Woolworth, DuPont and Loos-Wiles Biscuit each dropped a point on initial sales and Baldwin advanced 1/4. The first sale of United States Steel common was 1000 shares at 107, unchanged.

Continued irregularity took place throughout the early trading despite the index's heavy over-subscription of America's $10,000,000 portion of the $200,000,000 German loan. Chief interest in the stock market centered in the specialties. National Surety sold 6 points above its previous sale at 172, a new top; Youngstown Sheet & Tube advanced 2, Commercial Solvents 1 1/2, and Sayage Arms 1. United States Pipe dropped 1/2 point and General Electric 1 1/2. The market turned heavy around the end of the first half hour, United States Steel sagging to 106 1/2 and several other popular industrials and rails yielding to selling pressure. Foreign exchanges opened firm.

Disregarding current favorable business and credit conditions, the market continued to react throughout the forenoon. Prices in all sections of the list fell back sharply as bear operators extended their activities, preceiving that large interests were neglecting the market in their operations to insure the success of the German loan. Many speculative shares lost 1 to 3 points with steel, motor, tobacco, paper, rubber and rail issues under heavy pressure. American Water Works declined 2 1/2 points and Woolworth, Baldwin, General Electric and Lackawanna 2 points or more. Sinclair oil preferred dipped to 75, a new 1924 low. Call money renewed at 2 1/2 per cent.

With the active trading element apparently favoring the short side of the market, losses were considerably extended in the afternoon. Baldwin and American Can were the weakest of the pivotal industrials, falling 2 1/2 and 3 1/2 points, respectively. Roads involved in the projected new railway groupings were among the weakest issues, New York Central yielding 2 1/2, Lackawanna 3 1/2 and Delaware & Hudson 3 1/2. Standard Plate Glass dropped 3 1/2 to 14 1/2, a new low.

HEALTH-GIVING EFFECTS OF ARTIFICIAL SUNLIGHT

Demonstration at University of Maine by Scientists Who Have Been Conducting Experiments With Chicks—Prevention of Diseases of Children

ORONO, Me., Oct. 14.—The health-giving effect of artificial sunlight was demonstrated today at the University of Maine by President C. C. Little of the university and Dr. W. D. Davis, professor of biophysics at the Harvard Medical School, who have been conducting a series of experiments with chicks. The findings of these scientists, it was claimed, revealed important properties of such light, not only in the raising of chicks, but in the prevention of diseases of children, especially for rickets.

Experiments conducted on a brood of redpoll chicks indicated, according to Dr. Little and Davis, that not only can larger and stronger chicks be raised under the artificial sunlight but that chicks which were raised under natural sunlight filtered through ordinary window glass developed weak legs or rickets, weighed but one-fifth as much as the others, and died within a few days after hatching.

Ordinary window glass, it was explained, is opaque to ultra-violet and it was the ultraviolet or health-giving rays which resulted in the marked under-development of the chicks. The same principle, Dr. Davis said, would apply to children.

"Babies, particularly those of poor families, brought up in dark alleys and crowded tenement houses, and rich children brought up in homes where windows are closed all day long, are suffering from rickets, develop rickets," he said. "This is one of the chief causes of bow legs, which most mothers believe are caused by allowing the child to stand on its feet or walk too early in life."

Autopsies on babies in Dresden showed that of those which were born in the fall and died in the spring, 36 per cent. had rickets. However, of those born in the spring and who died in the fall only a very small percentage had rickets. The babies born in the spring were outdoors in the sunlight during the summer and therefore were not deprived of the ultra-violet rays of the sun.

In the experiments at the University of Maine, 233 chicks of three common varieties, two heavier breeds and one lighter were used. One group containing 125 chicks, received no artificial light and were termed "control chicks." The other 108 which were periodically bathed in ultra-violet light, were termed the "treated chicks."

"This ultra-violet light has proved not only a powerful stimulant to the growth and development of the chicks, but

JUDGE LANDIS STILL IN VESTIGATING CHARGES

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Sparks from the bomb thrown into baseball by the suspension of Cozy Dolan and Jimmy O'Connell for attempted bribery will continue to smolder out of control, and with enough deliberation during the winter by Commissioner Landis. The investigation is still being conducted, Judge Landis said last night before leaving here for Chicago. "I won't say whether or not I'm satisfied with how far I've gone already. The first trial broken during the explosion of the Dolan-O'Connell explosion, and which may be followed by the commissioner, include charges made by Dolan, a former catcher, and O'Connell, a former pitcher, who were both suspended for a year and a half for alleged bribery during the 1923 season. The charges were made by a former player, Lou Criger, a catcher, who had been approached by gamblers. Dr. Landis said that he was not yet ready to make a final decision on the charges. He said that he was still in the process of investigating the charges. He said that he was still in the process of investigating the charges.
